inl Chicago Wire to The Constitution. Chicago, Ill., June 20.-This has been a day of the most intense excitement. Nothing like it has ever occurred since the organization of our government and there will perhaps never be another to equal it. In the first place it is estied that a hundred thousand democrats from distant states are here parading, yelling and working for their favor-Hundreds of democratic clubs with flaming banners and brass bands are parading the streets. Two thousand many braves with the largest and finest of American bands are marching like regulars and shouting for Hill. Perhaps 5,000 from all parts of the country are rching behind bands, yelling for Cleveand, and 3,000 are marching to Boles music. The Gorman people to the numher of several thousand had prepared for a parade with fireworks accompaniments, but it has been called off on account of the change in the situation.

Last night the tide began flowing to It looked like Gorman's aces of defeating Mr. Cleveland were excellent. His friends, among whom vere included a dozen United States senators, held a conference this morning and

The Marylander thanked them, but declared that he did not believe, in view of the state of feeling among the delegates, that he could ever get two-thirds of the convention and, therefore, preferred that his name should not be used. That, of course, had a very dampening effect upon the ardor of the anti-Cleveland generals. Since then there has not been that feeling of confidence which surrounded them yesterday. Indeed, since noon today the tide has been changing and flowing more towards Mr. Cleveland than at any time since the fight opened here last Thursday. Had Mr. Gorman not seen he would have allowed the use of his-

> The change of affairs has been due to two moves made on the political chess board this morning. The first was a trade Whitney made through one of his lieutenants with Gray. Although Mr. Cleveland hates Gray with a bitterness equal to that of his hatred for Charles A. Dana, and although Mr. Cleveland though he declared in 1888 that he would Gray on the ticket, to win the fight he is in now he agreed to trade with Gray and to accept him as a running mate if the Indianian would throw the Hoosier delegation to him. The trade was consummated this morning and Gray telegraphed his friends of the Indiana delegation to go for Cleveland. They immediately held a meeting and resolved to vote as a unit for Cleve

While this Indiana meeting was being held the Illinois delegation was in session The Morrison members declared he could be nominated if Illinois would support him, but the Palmer delegates would not hear to but the Palmer delegates would not hear to it. Then the two factions engaged in bitter warfare. Both declared they preferred Cleveland to the other and the meeting ended with the understanding that the delegation would vote for Cleveland. When the news of the action of these two states got out the Cleveland men sent runners to all the headquarters of the various states to proclaim the tidings and declare that the light was at an end. The news was what caused Mr. Gorman to decline to enter the fight, and it likewise caused the friends of Morrison to announce that his name would not be presented to the convention. Later in the evening there was a conference between Gorman, Whitney and Lieutenant Governor Sheehan, of New York. Mr. Sheehan would not admit that the fight was at an end by any means. Senator Gorman told Mr. Whitney plainly that he believed the Cleveland men could nominate their candidate, but that they were doing a dangerous thing in view of the fact that the wisest leaders of the party did not believe that he could be elected. Senator Gorman and has friends have practically given up the fight, and the Maryland delegatin, unless a great change occurs tomorrow, will cast their votes for Mr. Cleveland. The New York men have not given it up by any means. While they acknowledge that he has the great bulge and that his nomination is probable, they declare they will hold out to the end, and do not retract a word of their declaration that it will be impossible Then the two factions engaged in hitter Opposition Unorganized.

The fight has been a hard and earnest one. Many of the managers of the opposition to Cleveland, including such men as Senators Carlisle, Ransom, Jones, of Arkansas, and others, are personally acquainted and are friends of the ex-president. They have not found in the control of the co dent. They have not fought him because they would not perhaps prefer to see him president to any other man the party could nominate, but because they entertain a sincere conviction that he cannot be elected. They do not believe that he can carry New York, Indiana or Connecticut. They have believed that the wishes and advice of the organized democracy of New York have believed that the wishes and advice of the organized democracy of New York should be respected, and, therefore, they have opposed the nomination of Mr. Cleveland, and have worked as earnestly as they knew how to prevent it. They have not succeeded, because the opposition has been without organization, with the exception of the New York people. While the New Yorkers are for Hill, and have been working for him, they have all along stated that if the opposition to Cleveland did not want their candidate they would go to any other with a clear, clean record. One trouble has been that the friends of the outside candidates will not get another. Indeed, there has been rather a good deal of selfishness about the entire contest. The friends of the outside candidates, especially the westerners, either want their man or Cleveland. Otherwise, while the opposition have all along had the power to defeat Mr. Cleveland by a combination, and yet have that power, they will not come together upon any one man. The chances are that they will never get together, and, of course, unless they do, there is no chance of defeating the nomination of Cleveland. There are a few who claim they will get together, and there are a great many who decline to express any opinion tonight, but it can be put down as certain that unless some very effective work is done by the opposition within the next twelve hours, Mr. Cleveland will be nominated. Effective work is possible, but not probable. Still no one can tell what twelve hours will bring forth in a polifical nomination.

I had a long talk with each of them this evening. Neither will admit, in so many words, for publication, that their cause is lost. It is not necessary. The truth is only too obvious. Special Chicago Wire to The Constitution. Chicago, Ill., June 20.-The Georgia delegation met this morning at 9 o'clock, and the most interesting work of its proceedings was the selection of the national democratic committeeman for Georgia for the next four years.

Clark Howell was elected by the unanimous vote of the delegation, after a most spirited campaign, which begun after the meeting of the state democratic convention held in Atlanta on May the 18th. . This opposition has been led by Mr. Hoke Smith, and nothing has been left undone to accomplish the first purpose of his campaign, to elect himself, and after that to elect anybody to defeat Mr. Howell.

Hoke Smith's Candidacy.

Immediately after the state convention, Mr. Smith announced himself as a candidate for the position, and letters were written either by himself or those interested in him, to the members of the delegation in his behalf, in which it was argued that his selection would be the logical sequence of the work of the convention, a majority of which had been for Cleveland.

Mr. Smith's bold claim that he had run everything to suit himself, and that the victory had been a personal one, does not seem to bear the test of today's action of the Georgia delegation.

Clark Howell Meets Him.

As soon as Mr. Smith announced for the position, Mr. Howell did likewise. An active campaign at once begun, and in less than ten days the latter had eighteen assurances of support out of the twentysix votes of the Georgia delegation. The matter was kept quiet, and the campaign was conducted without getting into the newspapers, being more or less in the nature of a personal issue.

Smith Flies the Field. When Mr. Smith found that he could not be elected, he at once set to work to accomplish Mr. Howell's defeat. A conference was held in Atlanta two days before the delegation left for Chicago, at which it was agreed to endeavor to get Colonel Rufus E. Lester into the race on the ground that he could carry the port a Savannah man. This plan did not materialize, and the effort to defeat Mr. Howell appearing to be futile, Mr. Smith left Atlanta for Chicago a day in advance of the time he had set for the Georgia delegation to dine with him at the Capital City Club in Atlanta by special invitation to each member. Smith LaysAnother Trap.

After the delegation reached Chicago and agreed to a caucus this morning at 9 o'clock, it was confronted with a proposition that it should not select the nationa committeeman until after the convention had nominated its candidate for president. This was advanced in the hope that the enthusiasm of Cleveland's probable nomination would have the effect of changing the determination of the Georgia delegation to elect Mr. Howell

But Is Tripped Up Again. A motion was accordingly made at this morning's meeting, but it was promptly tabled, and the opposition having been overcome, Mr. Howell received the unantmous nomination as committeman for the next four years.

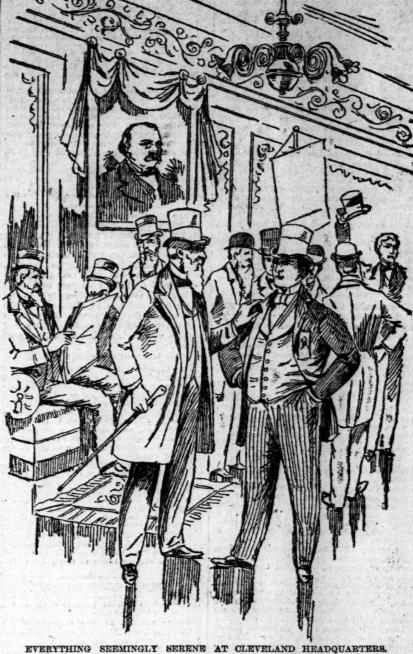

Another Dogfall for Smith. Colonel George A. Mercer, of Savannah, was selected to fill Colonel Estill's unexpired term, the latter having resigned on account of bad health. This selection was also surprising, as Mr. Smith announced that he would represent Georgia at today's meeting of the national committee by authority of proxy, which, of course, was nullified by the delegation filling the place.

At the meeting of the delegation Mr. Smith was present with the credentials of appointment by Hon. W. Y. Atkinson, chairman of the Georgia democratic state committee, to the vacancy caused by Estill's withdrawal and Lester's refusal to serve. Had the national committee met before the Georgia delegation caucused, this would have been the necessary credentials for representation, but the Georgia delegation decided to make its own choice and asked Colonel George A. Mercer to serve for the unexpired term.

Smith's Unripe Boasting.

An amusing feature of the day's developments is a published interview with Mr. Smith, in which he states that he withdrew his opposition and allowed Mr. Howell to be elected in the interest of harmony. The newspapers here have gossipy stories about the action of the delgation, and it is the talk of the Georgia contingent now in Chicago. The Other Selections.

Hon. Fleming duBignon was selected as chairman of the Georgia delegation. Hon. J. M. Griggs was recommended for the vice presidency of the national convention from Georgia. Hon. Louis F. Garrard was proposed for the committee on platform.

Hon. Henry Richardson on credentials. Hon. John Triplett on notification to

Hon. William Clifton on tmporary organization. The actions of the delegation were harmonious, and now that it has finished its preliminary work, it has turned its attention to studying the situation. E. W. B. The Associated Press Report. Chicago, June 20.-The most interesting for Mr. Smith against Mr. Howell, though they were Cleveland men, but would are about by the announcement that Clark Howell, of The Atlanta Constitution, has been chosen, by the unanimous vote of the state delegation, as national committeeman for the next four years, after a vigorous fight by Hoke Smith, who was a candidate on what he urged as the > Cleveland issue. When the Georgia convention of May 18th, went for Cleveland by a close vote, Smith began an active fight for the position of national committeeman. This fight he continued until it was evident that Howell would defeat him. Then he urged several other names, but the effort being futile, he withdrew and left a walk-over to Howell

Smith's Grandiose Magnanimity.

In the light of the above developm it will be curious reading to scan the interview which Hoke Smith furnished the Associated Press Sunday night. After the statement that he is "the recognized leader of Cleveland's forces in Georgia," the Associated Press goes on to quote the aforesaid "leader."

"Indeed," he remarked, "I would not be surprised if he (Cleveland) received nearly all, as it is likely that WE will conciliate the anti-Cleveland people by making Hon. Clark Howell, editor of The Atlanta Constitution, national committeeman of the state of Georgia. Howell and his friends have been leaders of the Hill movement in that state, and I think they will be disposed to let the majority rule and the delegation act as a unit if we concede Howell's selection as national committeeman.

Cleveland and anti-Cleveland factions is so nearly known that the only element of doubt now remaining affects those states which are suspected of having secret preferences for favorite sons.

The managers of the ex-president's enmpaign this morning display, with a great deal of ostentation, a carefully prepared table which gives Cleveland 680 votes on the first ballot, just nineteen votes short of the two-thirds necessary for the nomination.

The anti-Cleveland factions, among which may not only be included the forces of Sen-ator Hill, but also those of Boies, Gray and the secret but very earnest workers of Sen-ator Gorman, deride as unreasonably ex-travagant these figures of the Cleveland leaders, and assert that their investigations show that the ex-president is assured of but little over a majority on the first bal-

THE GORMAN BOOM.

It Is Regarded as an Uncertain Ele

Chicego Telegram to The Constitution. Chicago, June 20.—Probably the most uncertain feature in the whole contest just at this time is the attitude of Senator Gorman, of Maryland. He is here as a leader of the state delegation, as delegate at large, and outwardly maintains that he is devoted to the candidacy of Cleveland, but despite this assertion his name is more dis-to the nomination of the ex-president. For seventy-two hours secret emissaries of Gorman have been ceaselessly engaged canvassing in the various southern delegations to ascertain the disposition which the southern people manifest toward Gorman as a compromise candidate, and to whose lot is to fall the heritage of the Cleveland forces; but the Cleveland forces in the south, strange to say, do not seem disposed to be inherited by anybody just now-at least, not so long as they think there is a hopeful chance of the ex-president's nomi-

It was confidently expected by Mr. Gorman's friends that his record as the leader of the opposition in defeating the repub-lican force bill in the United States senate would bring to him rapid accessions from those southern delegations to which the vision of the force bill still looms up as a political nightmare whenever its passage is urged by a northern republican convenurged by a northern republican convention or orators.

A diligent canvass of the southern delegates, however, does not show an outspeaken preference for Gorman of more than an average of two or three men in each delegation, and southerners generally are very emphatic in maintaining that their only choice just at this time is the great, popular leader, Grover Cleveland, of New York.

The protestations of Senator Gorman that he must not be regarded as a candidate are considered as quite natural, and, indeed, the inevitable declaration of any candidate who is on the ground.

It is an unwritten law of democratic ethics that no man shall attend a national convention as a seeker for the presidential nomination.

convention as a seeker for the presidential nomination.

For this reason, the senator's reiteration of his loyalty to Cleveland, and his declaration that he is not a candidate, are not received with that unquestioned credence which might be awarded to the declaration of the great Maryland senator upon nearly any other subject; and so it is that the man who is the cynosure of all eyes, and whose movements are eagerly watched today by the leaders of the Cleveland forces, is the senator from the Terrapin State. Three or four conferences of the Indiana delegation have been held, but they have been fruitless to secure a compromise by which the vote may be cast as a unit. The indications are that on the first ballot seventeen votes will be cast for Gray.

The Cleveland people will brook the defeat and will carry the contest on to the floor of the convention immediately after the convention is called to order, unless they abandon their present intention. This will develop, though not perfectly, the strength of each side in the convention, and will show the utmost strength of the opposition to Cleveland and probably something in excess of that strength, as some Cleveland states voted for Owens.

The announcement of the intention to contest was made in the national committee immediately after Owens had won in the committee on the call of the roll between himself and William L. Wilson, tariff reform member of the ways and means committee, from West Virginia.

How the Fight Was Carried On.

The fight for the control of temporary organization has been going on quietly sin coming to the surface. Mr. Watterson entered into the fight on behalf of his state colleague with a vim and had the national committee canvassed before it was decided by the subcommittee to "suggest" Owens's

An adjournment over Sunday was taken and it was in this interval that Watterson went to work to seat his young Kentucky friend in the presiding officer's chair. The reof this canvass convinced him that Owens was all right, and Mr. Watterson has not hesitated to express his conviction that Owens would be the winner.

Some of the Cleveland men were in favor of acquiescence in the decision of the subcommittee, but Mr. Harrity, of Pennsylvania, and Senator Vilas said that they would make a fight on him. Stevenson was dropped as the man with whom to oppose Owens. Wilson, of West Virginia, was taken up as the strongest man the Clevelandites could put in opposition to Owens. Wilson was selected because he was a southern man, and because of his reputation as a tariff reformer, as well as his parliamentary skill.

Mr. Flower assented.

"Is it not true, too, that the contest against Cleveland in New York was more fierce in 1888 than in 1884?"

Mr. Flower was not sure this was not a fact—indeed he believed it was.

"Then why did Cleveland in 1888 poll more votes in New York than in 1884?"

To this Governor Flower's response was that Tammany always supported the regular ticket; whereupon the Tennesseean's remark that such an explanation scarcely answered the question unless it should be assumed that Tammany did not "support the regular ticket" so warmly in 1884.

"Did not the voice and influence of Cleveland aid very largely to your election?" a delegate asked of Mr. Flower, and the govdelegate asked of Mr. Flower, and the governor thought it did.

The Story of a Safety Pin The Story of a Safety Pin.

A special committee from Wisconsin, consisting of Governor Peck, General Bragg, and other distinguished delegates from that state also waited on the Tennessee delegation on behalf of ex-President Cleveland. An amusing anecdote in connection with their visit occurred when one of the Tennessee delegates asked Governor Peck why he had no Cleveland badge on The governor replied, pointing to a safety pin which was pinned conspicuously on his coat lapel, "I could not get a Cleveland badge, but I am wearing this safety pin in honor of Baby Ruth."

THE SILVER MEN MEET.

They Will Present Their Votes to Gormau if He Needs Them.

Chicago Telegram to The Constitution. Chicago, June 20.—The delegates from the silver states were in caucus three hours today, and as result 42 votes were pledged to Gorman on the first ballot. These votes are to come from Colorado, Montana, Idaho, Nevada, Utah, New Mexico, Arizona and Wyoming. Those active in the caucus claim that its action would directly influence thirty other votes in different delegations, making a total of seventy for Gorman as an outcome of the day's work by the silver men. Patterson, of Colorado, was thhe leading spirit in bringing about this action.

THE CLEVELAND ESTIMATE.

They Are Within Seven Votes of Enough to Chicago Telegram to The Constitution.

Chicago, June 20 .- An informal caucus of Cleveland's leaders was held at Secretary Whitney's rooms this afternoon at which after a careful examination of all figures, it was announced that 556 of the delegates who will go into the convention tomorrow are undoubtedly for Cleveland. and that thirty-six more are probable for him, making a total of 592 on the first ballot, or within seven of the nominating chicago Telegram to The Constitution. Chicago, June 20.—One of the surprises of the day was the statement of Mr. Taggart committeeman from Indiana, that the thirty votes of that state would be cast for Cleve land on the first ballot, and that Governo Gray's name would not be brought before the convention by Voorhees or anybody

"I have just left Voorhees," said Taggart, "and we have talked over the whole situation. He is convinced that it would not be a friendly act to introduce Gray's name, and I think he has made up his mind to advise the governor to that effect. He is, as you know, a consummate politician and he has examined the situation here so carefully that there are few men on the ground who know as well as he does just ow the convention is tending. He sees that it is Cleveland, and nobody but Cleveland, and naturally does not wish to sac-rifice his friend. He told me as much, though not in these words. Senator Voor-hees left on my mind a strong impression that the Gray men had decided to cast their whole vote for Cleveland, which will make Indiana solid for the ex-president from the

The Illinois Delegation The Illinois Delegation.

The Illinois delegation will be solid with its forty-eight votes for Grover Cleveland. There is no longer any reasonable doubt upon this point, and the effect of the analysis of the sound Cleveland. stock booming skyward today. Early this forenoon General John M. Palmer, for whom the Illinois delegation is instructed for the presidency, had an extended conference with the various members of the Illinois delegation at the Showman house and ence with the various members of the Illinois delegation at the Sherman house and made known his wishes that Cleveland should receive the solid forty-eight votes of the Prairie State.

"I think I can state, with considerable assurance, that Illinois will vote for Cleveland," said he to the Associated Press at the conclusion of this conference.

"I have said to my friends today that the democratic state convention of Illinois declared substantially, though not in direct terms, that Cleveland was the first choice of the people of the state of Illinois, and of the people of the state of Illinois, and in effect instructed the delegation to vote for Cleveland, since the instructions for me were only to be effective in the event that were only to be effective in the event that it was deemed expedient to come west for the presidential candidate. All this was understood at the time, and my friends joined with me in favoring the declaration that only in case the presidential candidate should come from the west should the delegation support me. I have approved that position in letters and conversations, and in every other way since that time. Having devised this course at the time the convention met, I now maintain it to be the duty of my friends, who are influenced by personal friendship for me to vote for Cleveland on the first ballot and not for me. I owe it to myself and to my personal integrity to insist that this should be carried out faithfully.

"I have said this to every gentleman of "I have said this to every gentleman of the Illinois delegation with whom I have had conversation, and will state that no finends generally agree with me fully, that no delegates shall vote for me on the first ballot, and I advise them all to vote for Cleveland without, of course, claiming any right to dictate to them, but putting it purely upon grounds of personal honor. That is all I can say, and all I had any right to say to the Illinois delegation, and I have no doubt but that they yill vote for Cleveland."

Gorman Also Gives Away. For the first time since the opening of the fray Senator Gorman avows his belief in the nomination of ex-President Cleve-

"I do not think Cleveland's nomination advisable," said the senator from Maryland this evening, "but as matters now stand seems inevitable."

Second Place. Chicago Telegram to The Constitution Chicago, June 20 .- Now that Gray is out of the running for the first place upon the democratic ticket, it seems to be generally conceded that he has become the strongest candidate in sight for the vice presidency.

There is talk of a deal between Whitney and Voorhees, which settles this problem, but the statement is strongly denied by both gentlemen. At a late hour Senator Voor-as I know, and while the indiana delegation may very possibly vote as a unit, it remains to be seen just what they will do. Indiana ought to have the presidency, but if the presidency goes to the east, then, in all fairness and good politics, Indiana should have the vice presidency."

It is understood that a rather formidable race has begun in the Indiana delegation by Bynum for the vice presidency on account of his labor record. Congressman Bynum, who is in Chicago, does not encourage the movement at all, and he flatly said in the Indiana rooms in the last hour: "The logical ticket is Cleveland and Gray. This use of my name is all foolishness, and is merely the result of some difference of opinion we have been having in our state, and which some of our friends have not forgotten. Cleveland and Gray can carry Indianagainst the republicans without a doubt."

THE WHITNEY CONFERENCE, At Which the Two-Thirds Vote for Cleveland Is Made Sure.

Chicago Telegram to The Constitution.
Chicago, June 20.—The meetings at which Whitney has presided have been informal in their character, but today messengers were sent to the different delega-tions and invitations extended to a number of gentlemen who were not delegates, but who were known to be in Chicago for Cleveland, and the result was a gathering who were known to be in Chicago for Cleveland, and the result was a gathering of about two dozen gentlemen in Whitney's rooms at the Richelieu. Whitney announced the result of the Cleveland poll, and explained that before the total of 556 hab been reached every doubtful element had been eliminated. No man had been counted who was not certainly a Cleveland delegate, and where any doubt whatever was entertained the person was not counted. With this 556 names were got together. The second list, consisting of names not included in the first catalogue, was read containing thirty-six names of gentlemen supposed to be for Cleveland but not certainly polled. It is understood that these persons were to be seen during the evening by some of theg-entlemen present, and the list was divided up, so that each missionary would have his own work to do. Mr. Whitney amounced that Cleveland was within seven of the necesthat Indiana had withdrawn Gray. Whitney replied that he understood that Senator Voorhees had advised Gray not to permit his name to go before the convention for the presidency, and while Gray had not been heard from in reply to the telegram, he was satisfied that his name would not be presented. He was asked whether any pledge had been made by Cleveland's friends to the Gray men, and he said that none had been made, although the logic of the situation will naturally bring the vice president to Indiana. Whitney was understood to say that Indiana proposed to give her full thirty votes to Cleveland, and that under the circumstances the fact should be recognized.

The Gorman Talk.

The Gorman matter was taken up and one of the gentlemen present said he had as-surance that Gorman was not a candidate from the senator himself. "It is even said that Gorman is willing wote for him."
"What did he say to you?" the informant was asked.

"Nothing further than that talk about "Nothing further than that talk about his candidacy was something with which he had nothing to do, and that when the time came for him to prove his loyalty to Grover Cleveland he would not be found wanting."

Another of the officers under Cleveland had in his hand what he said was an anti-Cleveland poll, as read at the silver meeting at the Marquett Club this afternoon, which claimed 372 votes in the convention against Cleveland if Gray and Gorman could be kept in the field. The fact that Indiana has taken Gray out of the race, took seventeen votes away from that estimate, and if Gorman was not presented then about thirty-four votes more would have to be deducted from it.

As to the Other Delegations.

As to the Other Delegations It was stated that the South Carolina, Mississippi and Georgia delegations would certainly give anybody some votes against Cleveland with chances that they would go to Boies, of Iowa, upon whom the Hill men were trying to combine. Senator Bayard, of Delaware, either in person or by representative, urged the polic of conciliation towards Hill and Tammany. Vilas, of Wisconsin, was also in favor of making the Hill men surrneder to them as easily as possible, granting every concession that would posmen surrneder to them as easily as possible, granting every concession that would possibly be asked which did not affect the main question—Cleveland. After the meeting was ended, one of the participants is said to have met Senator Voorhees, and to have asked him why he had advised Gray to get out of the way. The senator is quoted as saying, "I have no longer any doubt about Cleveland's nomination, and I would be a very poor friend of Gray, if I did not tell him the truth about the situation here. We can make him vice president. More than that we cannot do."

PAT WALSH GIVES IT UP. The Contest Is Ended and Cleveland Will

Be the Nominee.
Chicago Telegram to The Constitution.
Chicago, June 20.—Tonight when asked for his opinion of the outcome of the convention, Hon. Patrick Walsh, of Augusta, Ga., who has been outspoken in his opposition to Cleveland, and who represents the Randall tariff idea in the democratic party, said:

"The contest for the presidential nomina tion is virtually ended tonight. There is no longer any doubt as to the nomination of Cleveland on the first ballot. It is very probable that there will be no formal presentation of any other candidate. It is believed that Governor Gray, of Indi-ana, will be nominated for the second place on the ticket."

The anti-Cleveland sentiment is still very strong in three southern states, but outside of these three states Cleveland seems to be more than holding his own, and in Georgia it is not improbable that three doubtful votes may go to Cleveland on the first ballot, and land sixteen cracker Gorman Dropping Out.

Gorman is not authorizing any one to use his name as a candidate, and tomorrow the delegation will meet to consider how it will vote. It is said that Gorman will not consent to his name being presented to the convention, though no public declaration has yet been made, and in this event Cleveland will get the greater part of the Maryland will get the greater part of the Maryland vote. The three strong antibeleveland states are South Carolina, North Carolina and Mississippi, in all of which the alliance sentiment is strong, and opposition to free coinage is regarded as meterodoxy. South Carolina will go almost solidly for "anybody to beat Cleveland," and in North Carolina will go almost solidly for "anybody to beat Cleveland," and in North Carolina will go almost solidly for "anybody to beat Cleveland," and in North Carolina will go almost solidly for "anybody to beat Cleveland," and in North Carolina will go almost solidly to be the control of the control of the carolina will go almost solidly the carolina will go almost solidly the carolina will be controlled to the carolina will be carolin to beat Cleveland," and in North Carolina six votes about represent the number of steadfast Cleveland men, Mississippi hardly knows where it stands, and the delegates are in no hurry to have a poll taken. A majority of the delegation are anti-Cleveland, and if a good chance is offered for the success of one of the opposing candidates the Cleveland following would be quite small, but otherwise he will get all the drift.

Virginia is nearly evenly divided. In Alabama Cleveland will have more than half the delegation, and possibly two-thirds of it, and in other states the conviction seems to be that all the opposition to Cleveland is now futile.

MR. WHITNEY'S ESTIMATE.

He Has More Than the Necessary Number of Chicago Telegram to The Constitution. Chicago, June 20.—Between 9 and 10 clock tonight representatives from all the o'clock tonight representatives from all the state delegations assembled at the Richelieu hotel in a meeting with Whitney, Fairchild, Herrick and other friends of Cleveland. At half-past 11 o'clock the meeting, which was held behind closed doors, disbanded. To an Associated Press representative, immediately after the meeting, Secretary Whitney said:

"In view of the situation as it is now known to exist there will be no contest for temporary chairman, which means that Owens, of Kentucky, will be temporary chairman. It has been determined at the meeting tonight by representatives of the states who turned in an account of the absolutely sure votes for Cleveland to the number of 601, which is two beyond the necessary two-thirds to nominate as permanent chairman William L. Wilson, of West Virginia.

"Last night we counted 569 for Cleveland morning at 2:30 o'clock after a lingering filness."

As to the nominee for the second place Mr. Whitney was cautious. He said, however, that he presumed that Indiana would present the name of Governor Gray, and he thought it might be very warmly urged before the convention. While none of those present at the meeting tonight would state, an understanding had been reached as to the candidacy of Governor Gray, the spirit of their speech and the manner of their utterances left little doubt as to the ability in their mind that Governor Gray will be placed second upon the Cational ticket.

HARMONY IN NEW YORK. A Growing Probability That Mr. Hill May Withdraw.

Chicago Telegram to The Constitution.
Chicago, June 20.—It is understood that an attempt is being made tonight to reconcile the troubles within the democratic party in New York in the interest of harmony and success in the national elections.

An amicable arrangement is being sought. The election of Mr. Cleveland is conceded. and it is said that the members on both sides of the fight in New York have urged Senator Hill to withdraw his name and permit the vote of New York to be given to Cleveland, and nominate him practically by acclamation.

Chicago Telegram to The Constitution.
Chicago, June 20.—The democratic presidential ticket for 1892 will be Cleveland and Gray, or at least such is the general im-pression of the leading men of all factions at midnight tonight. The programme as generally understood around Cleveland's headquarters at that hour was that William Wilson, of West Virginia, would be permanent chairman of the convention, and that no fight would be made in the convention over the temporary chairmanship.

made in the convention over the temporary chairmanship.
Governor Abbett, of New Jersey, it is believed, is to make the nominating speech for Cleveland. The above result is believed to have been brought about by the enforcement of the unit rule in the great states of Illinois, Indiana, Pennsylvania and Missouri. The Cleveland victory, it must also be admitted, is in a large measure due to the firm stand taken on behalf of the expresident by Senator Palmer, of Illinois; ex-Governor Campbell, of Ohio, and Editor Morss, of The Indianapolis Sentinel. The effort to break the backbone of the Gleveland movement by removing some Cleveland movement by removing some of its vertibrae in the south, and transferring them to the opposition, has met with poor success, and the strongest of anti-Cleveland southern leaders now practically admit its failure and it is now admitted by them that Cleveland's nomination on the first ballot is a strong nobability. Even first ballot is a strong probability. Even the Hill people, in part at least, are now ready to admit their defeat, and in doing so they give all the credit to the generalship of ex-Secretary Whitney. They complain at the same time that there was no leader of the anti-Cleveland forces and in fact no the anti-Cleveland forces, and, in fact, no organization outside of NewYork. There had been attempts to concentrate on Senator Gorman, and conferences had been held with that purpose in view as late as this morning, but without result.

Mr. J. G. Woodward has returned from Philadelphia, where he has been for the past twelve days attending the annual convention of the International Typographical Union.

Mr. Woodward was a delegate from the Atlanta union. He was also present to attend a meeting of the board of trustees of the Childs-Drexel printers' home, which is located at Colorado Springs, Col.

Mr. Woodward is one of the trustees of the home, and is very enthusiastic as to its success.

The nucleus for the home was $10,000, which was given to the home five years ago in equal sums by George W. Childs and Anthony J. Drexel. These two gentlemen each made a gift of $5,000 to the International union, without specifying how it was to be used.

Beginning with that year, all the printers west of the Mississippi river would contribute 1,000 ems to the home on Drexel's birthday, and on Childs's birthday all the printers east of the Mississippi would do the same.

In this way the fund swelled to big proportions. Three years ago, at the convention at Denver, Col., eighty acres of land were given the union at Colorado Springs, on condition that a home for old, worn-out printers be built on it.

The proposition was accepted, and now a seventy-thousand-dollar home stands on the

In her branch of work she is, perhaps, unrivaled in the state. Besides being a journalist, she is known as a composer of music, and has composed many hallads. Among her friends she is constate. Among her friends she is considered a fine banjo player, and the negro songs which she has composed show the ready wit and originality that has always characterized the individual.

Miss Minnie Quinn holds me responsible position of secretary and treasurer of the ciub. She has been writing for the press many years. Her first poem was published at the age of eight, and in speaking of it, she says: "The St. Nicholas Magazine, in making mention of my poem, seemed to doubt the fact that so young a person was its author, and wound up the article by saying that the young light would blaze for a while, then, like the usual child composer, be heard of no more. I do not know whether it was a spirit of vindictiveness, or a real love for jinging the rhymes that prompted me, but I was not crushed by the brilliant future the editor had prophesied for me, and have kept straight ahead Macon Circuit. Atlanta Constitution, Puck and other northern journals. Four years ago she was given the position of society editress of The Constitution, a post she has held ever since.

Mrs. Ohl is a fearless writer and none but she would dare to waive the pen in so bold a manner. Her pieces are characterized by a dash, a ready way of saying what she means; a manner of attacking the strong and protecting the weak; yet, when all told, is done in such an advoit, skillful and charming way that it is delightful and refreshing. She is a woman admired by women—a rare trait.

There is a member of the Press Club. Christian Endeavor.

No other gathering throughout the year interests as many people as the annual international convention of this society.

It now has a membership in the world of over one million one hundred thousand, and is found in over thirty evangelical denominations, with more than twenty thousand societies.

The meeting this year will be held in Madison Square garden, New York city, which edifice will be arranged to seat 16,000. Over twenty-one thousand have already signified their intention to be present.

This meeting will give the citizens of Georgia a splendid opportunity to visit New York city and witness the grandest convention of the age, as it is the wish of the Christian Endeavorers in the state that all who desire may have the privilege of being present at one or more of the meetings.

The official train from Georgia will be in charge of ex-President A. B. Carrier, of the state union, and will go via Niagara Falls and deven the Hudeon viver from Albapay by day

There is a member of the Press Club, one who, outside her own circle of friends, is not well known. She has written many pleasing and forcible articles for the press, under various pseudonyms, and only recently, since her writing in the past has given her a firm foundation, has signed her real name—Mrs. Annie H. Smith. I know of no better read, cultured or intelligent woman than is she. By nature, she is rather retiring, but when called upon to give her ideas, she comes "out of her shell," as it were, and gives her opinion in the straightest and most forcible language. Mrs. Smith is principal in one of the schools and her discipline is like an iron hand in a velvet glove.

She is of an aristocratic South Carolina family and like others, has had her own cares; but trouble has not hardened her. On the contrary, it has made more beautiful and sublime a nature always ready to sympathize with others, always willing to lend a helping hand to the fallen or afflicted.

The following are a few of the names already registered: Colonel G. B. Whatley, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fox, Savannah; Rev. M. A. Mathews and party, of Calhoun; Mr. Tichnor and party, from Albany; Mrs. A. E. Brown, H. D. Fincher, Miss Maude Gause, from Atlanta; Dr. C. T. Stovall, Vienna; P. F. Cuttino and party, Newnan; C. S. Dean, Milner; M. A. Farr, Washington.

There is no extra charge for Niagara Falls and the trip down the Hudson, as both points will be visited en route. The very low fare of $24.90 for the round trip from Atlanta ought to induce a great many to go. Miss Corinne Stocker is a member of the club whose personality is ever pleasing and interesting. She has for the past two years filled the position of a society editress and many bright sketches have come from her pen. Her descriptive powers are unusually good. Beside being a writer of ability, Miss Stocker is a fine elocutionist, in fact thought by many to be the finest in the bouth. She has a bright future before her, both as a writer and as an elocutionist.

A popular member of the club is Mrs.

Cumberland Parties Forming. In Atlanta clubs of friends are forming to take shares and lots of the High Point Cumberland Island Company. Messrs. C. H. Swift and John Colvin are already subscribers. Mr. A. S. Seals, of Greenesboro, will soon have his party of friends ready. Judge Hamilton McWhorter and his Lexington friends are expected to form another club. Every person who takes two shares, of $100 each, gets a deed to a lot, 50x150 feet, near the hotel. Bound for Victory. Midnight Chicago Special to The Constitution. The democratic ticket is bound to win in November.

The caucusing indulged in by the opposing forces; the visits from one camp to the other, have begotten a brotherhood which will stand as one man behind the nominee to be put forward in a few hours.

The friends of David B. Hill, that incorruptible democrat, have fought with an energy worthy of their cause. They have done their full duty, and are now resting on their oars, ready to battle as earnestly for the democracy as they have done for Hill.

The friends of Cleveland, whose magnificent administration has brought him such strong support here, have acted with becoming dignity, and will obliterate all signs of division with the calling of the successful ballot.

Gallant Iowa has presented as brave a man as ever appeared before the people. Boles is a man who deserves to be president, and 'he Constitution hopes he may live to fill the chair yet.

The friends of all have done their work well. Their zeal for their chiefs will only be equaled by their zeal for the party. The democratic clans met under different banners; they will separate un-

The man is a traitor to society and party who, in that moment, would say a single word calculated to open the wounds of the preliminary campaign. The one duty of all democrats is to support the man in front!

A Bankrupt Law.

Before congress adjourns it is probable that a substitute for the well-known Torrey bankrupt bill will become a law. The proposed bill, approved by the house judiciary committee, retains some of Torrey's provisions in a modified form. It provides that any person or company, except a corporation, may become a voluntary bankrupt upon surrendering all property, except what is exempt by law. Involuntary bankruptcy may result upon the petition of three crditors whose joint claims must exceed $500; or where there is evidence of fraud or failure to pay commercial paper in thirty days involuntary bankruptcy may be forced. The bill prohibits the abuse of assignments and preferred creditors.

Under such a law men who make an honest failure in business will obtain relief, and merchants who suspect unfair conduct in others who are indebted to them will have a remedy. The referee who will take the place of the register under the old law, will be-paid no salary, and all expenses will come out of the estate.

Heretofore our bankrupt laws have been short-lived, but the inconvenience of having different statutes on the subject in so many states is a strong argument in favor of a general law. It is to be hoped that the new system will justly guard the interests of both creditors and debtors.

The Way to Win.

Special Chicago Wire to The Constitution. In common with a great many demo crats who are interested in the success of the party. The Constitution has been insisting on the nomination of a candidate who can win.

This is a very important matter, but it. is not more important than the necessity which demands that democrats in every state in the union shall get together on the broad principles of the party so that they can win with any candidate. That is the true solution of the nominating problem, and it ought to be the disposition of all democrats.

We do not know, of course, who is to be the nominee of the convention, but all the indications at this writing point to the nomination of Mr. Cleveland. In that event, the democrats who have opposed him on account of the opposition of the party in his own state, should hasten to strengthen his hands so that he will be able to carry not only New York, but all the doubtful states that are necessary to democratic success.

When the convention adjourns, the differences that -we existed between the Cleveland and the anti-Cleveland democrats will be found to be purely minor differences over a question of party policy. Both factions are earnestly seeking democratic success, and if Mr. Cleveland is nominated, the way to achieve democratic success is to elect him. differences to which have their most dangerous center in New York, but we believe that even in that state the desire for the success of the party will rise superior to all personal objections to any candidate,

No true democrat will engage in a scheme to sacrifice his party in order to spite an individual.

Democrats Getting Together. ecial Chicago Wire to The Co

The flerce democracy will present a solid front to the enemy in this campaign! Different views concerning men and measures and policies will be harmonzed when the convention announces its ticket and its platform. Democrats know how to differ and yet come together at the right time for united action. With the shadow of the force bill hanging over them, and with McKinleyism and plutocracy as burning issues. there are very few democrats north or south who will allow their personal preferences to lead them into revolt.

If there was any danger of serious factional divisions in the party it is now a thing of the past. The leaders and representative men have freely and fully discussed their views in the good, old-fashioned democratic way, and are now ready to let the convention speak for them and for the party.

The skies are brightening, and the signs point to victory. The convention will nominate the winning ticket, and the struggle made for the "favorite sons" of various states will then be ancient history.

"It looks like Cleveland," was the opening line of our first editorial wired from Chicago, and the situation tonight is best expressed in the same words.

We are getting together and organizing for victory!

It is a ground hog case. The democrats must win in November. Will the breth-ren in New York please bear this in mind? The weather is said to be stormy at Chi-

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Fred Mussey writes: "To the magnificent nd lustrous public career of Mr. Blaine have entered elements of personal sorrow and grief that few men have been called upon to face and endure. The vocabulary of political abuse has een exhausted, and the last resources of the cartoonists have been drawn upon to pillory him, stripped and tattooed, before the world. The gravestones of his children have not been spared from desecration, and today he is alone with only one son left. James G. with Walker dead, Emmons dead, his favorite daughter dead, and in his thoughts the howls of his political enemies, mingling with the roan of the Atlantic, surges on the rock-bound coast of his home. No more pathetic figure was ever known in history than this neglected idol of his people in his lonesome despair.

"The physicians who attended Emmons Blaine, as is the custom, indulge in a world of professional technicalities, as did the physicians in the case of President Garfield, but it worshiped his father. Whatever may have been the direct cause of Emmons Blaine' leath, there is no one at all familiar with the given in this dispatch are the real ones. Peo ple in the hurly-burly of politics, its acrimontes and antagonisms, seldom take account of wives and daughters and children and home lovers, and affections behind it all, and harsh and cruel things are said of men who can fight back, but wives and children weep in silence as wives and children and sweethearts alone can weep over the scarred bodies of their loved ones, who have been in the battle's front in warfare. Look into the eyes of the famous statue of the dying Napoleon of Vela, and catch some idea of the look from the eyes of James G. Blaine as he gazes back upon the stormy and magnificent past, caring little that in the future his name will show in the list of the accepted great men of history."

Of George Vanderbilt's residence, near Ashe ville, N. C., a correspondent says: "It would seem that this young gentleman has occupa-tion enough for many years of his life in the completion of his mother's place at Bar Harbor and his own pet chateau of 'Blitmore,' in North Carolina. Some idea of what this won-derful place, of which the foundations are hardly yet laid, is to be, may be gathered from the plans, which represent a mansion 850 feet front and containing 100 bedrooms. Already the pasture land feeds hundreds of cows, and it is Mr. Vanderbilt's ambition to have them counted by thousands, that he may be able to supply all North Carolina with milk. Mr. Vanderbilt's friend, Mr. Pinchot, a brother of the young lady who is expected some time to marry Mr. Alan Johnstone, has gone abroad, commissioned by the owner of these 8,000 acres, to purchase a library on forestry, with a view to the laying out of the grounds of this stupendous place. Sixty miles of fine roads are already considered. of fine roads are already completed."

GEORGIA POLITICAL NOTES.

The Savannah News says that the democratexecutive committee of the first congress-onal district, which will meet at the DeSoto une 29th to settle upon a place and date to old the congressional convention, will probably decide upon Savannah as the place. Ma-jor Ryals, chairman of the committee, says that Savannah is the most available place since the redivision of the district, and he believes the committee will select it. The convention will probably be held the early part of August. The first district now consists of Chatham, Screven, Emanuel, Bulloch, Effingham, Bryan, Tattnall, Liberty, McIntosh and Burke counties. The counties which were Burke counties. The counties which were dropped off and put into the eleventh are Glynn, Camden, Ware, Wayne, Pierce, Echols, Giynn, Camaen, Ware, Wayne, Pierce, Ecnois, Appling, Clinch and Charlton. Burke was taken from the tenth and added to the first. The first district convention will be made up of twenty-four delegates instead of forty, and under the two-thirds rule sixteen votes will be under the two-thirds rule sixteen votes will be requisite to a nomination. In discussing the political outlook The News says:

"While of course there will be no opposition to Congressman Lester in the convention, Major Ryals believes he will have a third party opponent and possibly a republican opponent as well. The three men from whom the third party will most likely make their selection for a congressional standard bearer. Major Ryals says, are Dr. Brown of Bulloch county, W. L. Kemp of Emanuel, and John Cooper of Savannah, who is in charge of the alliance warehouse here. Major Ryals wants the democrats of the first to begin an early and aggressive campaign, because, he says, they have an enemy to fight in Screven, Emanuel, Bryan, Tattnall and Liberty counties. Major Ryals wantato impress upon the democratic party the importance of looking after its interests, and to do this it must be thoroughly organized. A vigorous campaign is what is wanted. In speaking of the senatorial question Major Ryals believes Colonel Gordon is the man for senator. He is a man with many strong friends in the country and would make an able representative of the district."

Editor Hawkins, of The Gibson Enterprise Record, since his return to the democratic fold, has been making it hot for the third party fellows in that vicinity. Recently the following article appeared in the columns of following article appeared in the columns of The Enterprise-Record:

"Tom McKay, chairman of the district executive committee called a mass meeting of the democratic party of the district, to meet here May 28th, to elect four delegates to the county convention to nominate two candidates for representatives. Twelve white men and one negro responded to Chairman McKay's call, and they elected the negro and three white men delegates and the negro delegate went to the convention last Friday in Louisville and helped to nominate two cod-fishery aristocrats for representatives."

Editor Hawkins replies to the statements contained in the above in the following vigorous English:

ous English: ous English:

"That article was written by one infamous scoundrel and deliberate liar, A. S. Walden. The only comment we have for the above is to denounce it as a ridiculous misrepresentation of the facts. We dismiss Walden as being beneath the recognition of humanity, and assure our readers that he will never again trespass upon our space."

A vigorous effort is being made to harmonize the various elements of the democratic party in the second congressional district. The in the second congressional district. The Thomasville Times says of it:

"So far the effort has not fully succeeded but we believe good will come of it. With a third party candidate in the field, it is almost certain that the republicans will put out a candidate or do their utmost to strengthen the hands of the third party. It is then the part of wisdom for the democrats to choose a standard bearer who can unite the party and poll its full strength in November next. We trust that something will be arranged so that we hay see a good strong man and a true democrat nominated and elected."

A correspondent, writing from Naylor to The Valdosta Times, shows up some of the miss-onary work which is being done by third party preachers in that section. The correspondent says:

syndent says:

"Some days ago there came along two evangelists in the interest of the third party, and in their travels they came across a son of Ham, by the name of Peter, who was engaged in plowing a small patch of corn. They stopped and waited for the said Peter to get to the end of the row when they halled him, and the following conversation took place: "Well, my good friend, we are traveling around to enlighten all you colored friends in regard to the new party we are going to get up. We had a meeting in Valdosta the other day in which we agreed to let you colored folks come in and we are going to let you have a mule and forty acres of land and all the money you want at 1 per cent interest. You have tried and forty acres of land and all the money you want at 1 per cent interest. You have tried the republican party and we have tried the democratic party, and your party has done you no good and our party has done us no good; now we want you all to go with us, and you shall have all the money, mule, land and everything else thrown in.'"

The Douglasville Democrat pays this com-The Douglawille Democrat pays this compliment to Hon. George Hillyer:

"Today we hoist to our masthead the name of Hon. George Hillyer, as representative for the fifth congressional district. Judge Hillyer is a pure man. Has been tried in many positions of trust and has always proven faithful. Has always on all occasions taken positive democratic grounds. About him there is no taint or suspicion of third partyism, independentism. A man of ability, integrity, sound judgment, if elected—and The Democrat sees no reason he should not—will make a good congressman."

This is the way The Douglasville Democrat.

This is the way The Douglasville Democratsums up the political situation in the Douglasville district:

"One hundred and sixty majority. In the town district, outside of the corporate limits one hundred and twenty-five white voters. Of these seventy-five are democrats, forty hybrids, balance scattering. Within the corporate limits are one hundred and seventy-five voters, of these forty wear the hybrid stripes, one hundred and twenty are true-blue, rock-ribb democrats, fifteen scattering. In the whole district then we can safely claim about one hundred and twenty white majority for democracy. In all county and local elections the forty negro votes are always cast for democratic candidates, so this gives democracy all of one hundred and sixty clear majority in the Douglasville district."

Dr. T. B. Miller, of Stewart county, has announced his candidacy for state senator. The Lumpkin Independent says he can count on a strong following in the twelfth senatorial district.

The Lampkin Independent save that an in terview with Hon. W. W. Fitzgerald, a few days ago, disclosed the fact that it is possible he may be a candidate for senatorial honors in the next general assembly. He is not a candidate of his own motion or golition, but says he belongs to the democratic party, and if it wants him to serve the people, it is for the party and the people to say so. That he is not a candidate for any office or honor, but if the people want him it is for them to make known their will.

The Georgia Delegation.

From The Macon, Ga., Telegraph.

The delegation is composed of true and tried democrats, who can be relied on to subordinate men to measures, and make party principles paramount to candidates. They will act in the spirit of the motto of this grand old common-wealth, which advises wisdom in our councils, justice in our acts and moderation in our ser timents. While members of the delegation may have their personal preferences they will at all times first consider the good of the party and the best interests of the entire country They are men of brains and may have many minds, but they all have one common purpose, namely, the triumph of democracy at the election in next November.

To this statement from the Danville, Mr.
Marion Erwin, of counsel for the Central's minority stockholders, makes reply.

He says:

"The effort of these people to saddle the downfall of the Richmond and Danville system upon the people interested in the Central railroad of Georgia, and upon the federal court in this district, is so palpably in excuse to cover up the mismanagement of the Richmond and Danville and divert or the Richmond and Danville and divert attention from the stupendous 'wildcat' financiering which has characterized the 'Terminal' people, that no one who has kept posted on the railroad situation can for a moment credit the bona fides of the was compelled to appoint a committee, headed by Mr. Olcott, to arrange for a compromise of indebtedness and a reorganization of its securities.

"It is said, however, that the federal court illegally enjoined the voting of the 40,000 shares of stock of the Central owned by the Terminal company. This injunction was granted at the hearing before both Judge. Pardee and Judge Speer, and it would seem without discussing the legal reasons which controlled the court in that matter, that the wrongs which the Terminal company and its puppet, the Richmond and Danville, inflicted on the Central while it controlled it by the voting power of that stock would shut the mouths of these people on that subject. At the last hearing before Judge Speer the Central Trust Company, of New York, filed a petition asking that it be allowed to vote the stock, one of the grounds being that the Terminal had pledged this stock with them and only owned a remote equity of redemption in it. It is not strange, therefore, that the proof showed that the Terminal was operating the Central for the benefit of its stockholders.

"If the complaint is directed against the Central Railroad and Banking Company, however, because it is prosecuting its legal remedies to right itself from the prostrate position in which it was plucked by the robber-like onslaughts on its treasury made under the color of law by the fiction of a lease, then all we have to say is that we have no apologies to make, and if these speculators expect to loot the treasuries of the great corporations which have been built up by the money and energy of the people of Georgia, and while running off with the booty, also expect us to set surgenely by because of the false cry that timid capital will be frightened, they are reckoning without their host. "Not at all."
"What is your opinion of the movement placing the Richmond and Danville railroad property in the hands of two receivers?"
"That seems to have been done merely to anticipate Judge Speer's action. But I heard a very judicious and conservative maneritiese the action of Judge Bond in appointing receiver so promptly for the Central railroad last march, but that Judge Bond's decision was far more remarkable. Here were parties who brought an application without claiming to be creditors. They simply asked that their interests be protected. Judge Bond appoints two receivers without hearing a word of argument, and does not set down a hearing inside of two mouths. This is regarded as much more heroic and extraordinary than the procedure of Judge Speer. We do not care to put the Richmond and Danville into the hands of a receiver. We do not want security for our debts, and if the Richmond and Danville railroad will give bond covering the amount of our indebtedness, we shall accept it. Forty Couples Become Tired of Wedden Life

WANT TO BE SINGLE AGAIN

The Score in Judge Marshall Clarke's Court Yesterday-The Case of Kep-pel vs. Keppel-Other Suits.

Yesterday, in Judge Marshall Clarke's court, was devoted to the trial of divorce The scene when the court assembled presented an interesting group of plaintiffs.
Wives charging their husbands with nerlect and cruelty and husbands preferring similar charges against their wives. Intoxication, cruelty, abandonment and other violations of the marital oath made up the general allegations under which the cases were brought, and every pha domestic infelicity was represented in the different libels for divorce. There were forty cases set for a hearing during the present week. A few of the are old cases and the petitioners are suing for a second verdict. The greater number, however, are brand new and the plaintiff yesterday inhaled for the first time the atmosphere of the courtroom.

A Preacher 1s Divorced. The first case of "domestic unpleasanteness" was the suit of Rev. T. E. Mo Cutcheon against his wife, Mrs. Lula B. McCutcheon. The petition that was read to the jury alleged that the couple was married in the brue-grass region of Kentucky. and that the name of the bride who surrendered her heart to the young preacher was Miss Lula B. Dempsey. They lived to gether for a while quite happily and three curly-haired children blessed their union as man and wife. Difficulties, however, commenced to set in after a short while, and several disturbances interfered with the "even tenor" of things in the little home. After a time the preacher grew tired of his sorrows and made up his mind to petition the court for a separation.

The evidence disclosed an interesting state of affairs. It seems that when the nuptials were celebrated the groom had not been called to the ministry, and later when he announced to his wife that he thought it was her duty to preach she flevinto a rage and told him "if she had thought he was going to make a fool of himself" the was going to make a fool of himself" dered her heart to the young preacher was into a rago and told him "If she had thought he was going to make a fool of himself" she would never have married him. He testified that she called him by very unhallowed names and that she frequently accompanied her remarks with bodily assaults that were not only unpleasant to his feelings, but were also damaging to his per-that were not only unpleasant to his reerings, but were also damaging to his personal appearance.

When he attempted to read his Bible at night she would blow out the lamp, leaving him utterly in the dark; and when he attempted, without retaliation, to relight the wick she would taunt him with a lick in the face. She was also in the habit of disturbing his nocturnal meditations, and of interrupting his communion with God to such an extent that his devotions afforded him no spiritual comfort and his life was hardly worth living.

The jury, in sympathy with his "tale of woe," awarded him a verdict of total di-

Mr. Jenkins, the plaintiff alleged, was a beastly drunkard, without the hope of redemption or reform. He was a member of the Salvation Army, having enlisted in the ranks after their marriage was solemnized, and she says he used every effort to induce her to join with him. When he took the decisive step it proved to be the "straw that broke the camel's back," and "they mutually resolved to give up house keeping and go in opposite directions."

The jury awarded the plaintiff a verdict.

A Broken Nose.

A Broken Nose. A Broken Nose.

The case of Mrs. Mary Mooney against her husband. William B. Mooney, was the next called and she petitioned for a verdict No. 1.

Mrs. Mooney contended that her husband was a petty tyrant and that when he was under the control of liquor, which was frequently the case, he was extremely cruel and treated her with actual brutality.

He came home one day, she avers, and in a domestic difficulty that resulted from a small dispute, he struck her with a singletree and severely injured the bridge of her nose. Other difficulties disturbed their home life and the jury after considering the case, decided that she was entitled to a verdict and granted the divorce accordingly.

The Keppel Divorce Suit.

The Keppel Divorce Suit. The Keppel Divorce Sult.

The last suit taken up and one that will occupy perhaps the remander of the week was the suit of Mrs. Mary E. Keppel against her spouse, Henry A. Keppel.

The petition recited that the parties were united in matrimony on the 15th of July, 1886, and that after four "winters of discontent" they separated in the spring of 1890.

Mrs. Keppel states, however, that before the spring arrived she discovered that her husband's fancy was "lightly turning" in the direction of another girl, and that he was infatuated with a young typewriter, with chinquepin eyes, by the name of Mary Kinsley.

infatuated with a young typewriter, with chinquepin eyes, by the name of Mary Kinsley.

Before the case was opened however, Messrs. Bigby & Hayden, the attorneys for Mr. Keppel, took the position that Mr. Keppel, took the took of the plantiff in the pending suit, was the defendant in Mr. Keppel's suit for a second verdict.

Messrs. Arnold & Arnold, the plantiff's attorneys, took issue with the defendant's counsel and the matter was closely argued. Judge Clarke, however, decided in favor of the defendant's construction and by his ruling made him the plantiff in the case. The case then proceeded upon the issue as to whether or not Mr. Keppel was entitled to a second divorce from Mrs. Keppel was entitled to a second divorce from Mrs. Keppel, during the absence of her busband, drew a lot of money from her husband's bookkeeper with which to buy a diambnd ring. It was alleged by Mr. Keppel that the ring was intended for an unknown person and that "Father to Mary" was engraved upon the inside for the purpose of disguise. It was proven by the jeweler, Mr. A. F. Pickert, that the ring was purchased by Mrs. Keppel.

The case will be continued today and it is probable from the number of witnesses to be examined that it will occupy the remainder of the week.

The Criminal court. with Judge Richard

The criminal court, with Judge Richard Clark presiding and Mr. B. H. Hill as solici-Chark presiding and Mr. B. H. Hill as solicitor yet tem, convened yesterday morning in the betsement of the courthouse. Several case were tried for burglary and five young negroes between the ages of five and fifteen were convicted of house-breaking. President Harrison Suggests This Course to Congress.

FAILURE OF THE RECENT CONFERENCE.

Canada Does Not Propose to Deal Fairly With the United States-And We Must Meet Their Game.

Washington, June 20.—In a state paper sent to the senate today an answer to the resolution of February 24th last calling for information relative to reciprocity negotiathe death knell of that project and plants mile post in American history by deliberately in effect recommending that congress proceed to retaliate upon the dominion for persistent demal of the rights of American citizens, guaranteed by the treaty of Washington in connection with the nav-igation of Canadian canals. The failure of the reciprocity negotiations is due to the position taken by the Canadian representatives at their recent conferen

Washington with Secretary Blaine and John Washington with Secretary Blaine and John W. Foster, which, in effect, was that it would be "impossible for the Canadian government, in view of its present political relations and obligations, to extend to American goods preferential treatment over those of other countries. As Canada was past of the British empire they did not consider it competent for the dominion government to enter into any commercial arrange.

American goods preferential treatment over those of other countries. As Canada was past of the British empire they did not consider it competent for the dominion government to enter into any commercial arrangement with the United States from the benefits of which Great Britain and its colonies should be excluded."

The president says that it is not for this government to argue against this announcement of Canadian official opinion. "It must be accepted, however, I think, as a statement of the condition which places an inseperable barrier in the way of the attainment of that large and beneficial intercourse and reciprocal trade which might otherwise be developed between the United States and the dominion. From documents accompanying the president's letter it appears that an effort was made by Blaine and Foster, at the recent conference, to induce the Canadian ministry to repeal and abandon the drawback of 18 cents a ton given to wheat, (grain) that is carried through Canadian canals to Montreal and shipped therefrom to Europe. By American railways running from Ogdensburg and Oswego and other American ports shippers paid full 20 cents a ton, while in effect those by way of Montreal pay only 2 cents. It was understood that the Canadian ministers, who were all three members of the cabinet, would see to the withdrawal of this discrimination.

"Instead of abrogating this drawback the Canadian ministry, after the return of the commissioners from their visit to Washington on April 4th, reissued, without any communication with this government, an order continuing the discrimination, by which the rebate of 18 cents a ton is allowed upon grain going to Montreal, but not to American ports, and refusing this rebate even to grain going to Montreal, if transhipped at an American port. The president, adopting the language of the solicitor of the treasury department upon this action of article 27 of the treaty of 1891, seems to be clear. It is wholly evasive to say that there is no discrimination or prots equal terms in passing government has not responded promptly to our request for the removal of these discriminating tolls. The papers submitted show how serious the loss inflicted is upon our lake vessels and upon some of our lake ports. In view of the fact that the Canadian commissioners still contest with the United States the claim that these tolls are discriminating and insist that they constitute no violatoin of the letter or sprit of article 27 of the treaty, it would seem appropriate that congress, if the view held by the executive is approved, should with deliberation and yet with promptness take such steps as may be necessary to secure the just rights of our citizens.

"In view of the delays which have already taken place in transmitting this to congress I have not felt justified in awaiting a further communication from the government of Canada, which was suggested in the recent conference. Should any proposition relating to this matter be received, it will be immediately submitted for the consderation of the senate; and if forwarded within the time suggested will undoubtedly anticipate any final action by congress."

Voluminous documents accompanying the president's letter compose the history of all negotiations with the British colonies to the northward upon these two subjects—reciprocity and canal tolls.

Railroad Interference.

Washington, June 20.—The senate was in session for four and a quarter hours today. Although the attendance was very small, part of the time was given to the consideration of bills on the calendar, a part to executive business and the chief portion to a speech by Mr. Call in sapport of the resolution heretofore offered by him for an investigation of rallroad corporations and their interference in politics and elections. Senators Chandler and Gallinger expressed their gratification that the investigation, if authorized at all, as they hoped it would be, would take in the state of New Hampshire, the former asserting that it would prove that Florida was not the only state where the evil existed, and the latter expressing the conviction that it would only prove the falsity of representations made by certain persons in that regard. No action was taken on the resolution and the senate adjourned to Wednesday. In the business transacted that was of general interest vas the concurrence in the house amendment to the senate joint resolution authorizing the president to proclaim a general holiday commemorating the four-hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America. It was to substitute the 21st for the 12th of October.

Tonight the chapel was crowded with a most cultured audience and the young ladies never appeared to a better ad at tage.

Governor McKinley made the speech of notification. The president, in his reply, jollied the McKinley bill a little. The president wore a brand-new suit of diagonal cloth, which looked as if it were the product of some English loom. Be that as it may, the pair of breeches which Mr. Harrison had on were the first which did not oag in the knees that he has shown up in While Shepard Plays the Monkey Colonel Eliot F. Shepard, who has been slashing around Washington for three or four days, was there. The colonel was very much flushed, as to his face. He was also exuberant. The casual observer, had he not known that Colonel Shepard's paper adjures all to "look not upon the wine when it is red," would have concluded that the great religio-politico editor had not only looked on, but imbibed.

When the president had finished speak-ing his piece, Colonel Shepard jumped upon a chair and asked for three cheers for Harrison. Of course, he got them. These things were done in the east room. The cabinet, the notification commitabout a score of government officers of the lower rank, then cabinet officers and number of newspaper men were present.

The Lemonade Passed Around. The president asked Colonel Shepard to invite the hands to the state dining room, where a luncheon had been prepared. Russell Harrison circulated briskly around, and insisted upon the invitation being accepted. He caught two newspaper men, who were about to make their escape, and brought them back. The luncheon was a very fine one, indeed. Mrs. Harrison, Mrs. McKee and Baby McKee were in the room. The ladies were very gracious. The president was in excellent humor. He patted, joked and laughed. There was no coldness about him today. There was a warmth and geniality that made everybody feel at The ice wagon had evidently been broken up.

There was nothing to drink except lemon ade, orange water and apollinaris. Uncle Jerry Rusk presided over the lemonade bowl.

This will solve the vexed question of the politicians—"a high terrace" for the hill country and a "low terrace" for this flat country would unite all parties and make even the "colored brother" a democrat.

CAPTAIN HARRY JACKSON'S DISCLAIMER

Of Any Knowledge of the Richmond and Danville's Intention to Apply to Judge Bond for a Receiver.

Macon, Ga., June 20.—(Special.)—Before the commencement of the third day's hear-ing on the Central's petition for a receiver for the Richmond and Danville the grand jury of the United States court was empan-eled with W. R. Cox as foreman. The jury will investigate a few eriminal cases which have come up since the last grand jury was discharged a few weeks ago.

grand jury was discharged a few weeks ago.

After a brief charge from the court the jury retired and then Mr. Marion Erwin continued his argument for the complainants, which was interrupted by adjournment on Saturday.

Mr. Erwin, who spoke for about one hour, dwelt chiefly on the amendment to the bill.

This amendment sets up a laborer's and landlord's lien in behalf of the Central against the Richmond and Danville.

At the request of the court Mr. Erwin touched very lightly on the question of jurisdiction as set up by the Richmond and Danville in their motion to dismiss.

Oaptain Jackson Talks.

Danville in their motion to dismiss.

Captain Jackson Talks.

Captain Harry Jackson followed Mr. Erwin. At the outset of his argument Captain Jackson said that he desired to disembarrass the mind of the public generally of the impression that the Richmond and Danville and its counsel in Atlanta had been cognizant of the preparation of the "Virginia" bill. He desired to state that the officials of the Richmond and Danville were astounded at and totally unprepared for the entrance of one of the receivers appointed by Judge Bond.

Passing on to his argument, Captain Jackson dwelt on the question of jurisdiction and service, setting up that service of papers on the general manager in Atlanta was not sufficient, because Atlanta is not the residence of the defendants.

He further set up that the property was already in the hands of officers of the United States courts. This being the case the danger threatening the property was not imminent, but on the contrary was past.

Captain Jackson grew somewhat sarcastic in speaking of the amendment to the bill which sets up the liens. This, he said, was noteworthy chiefly on account of the amount of brilliant and artificial brilliancy that had been thrown around a dense, dark and far-fetched idea by the appointment of a receiver was one of the most interesting, logical and impressive Captain Jackson Talks.

appointment of a receiver was one of the most interesting, logical and impressive that has yet been delivered in the court. It occupied about one hour and a half.

Judge Adams Speak.

Captain Jackson was followed by Judg Adams, of Savannah, for the Central rail road, and after him will come Hon. A O. Bacon. O. Bacon.

It is not probable that any decision will be reached before tomorrow afternoon.

Court adjourned at 1:45 o'clock and will meet tomorrow morning half an hour earlier than usual. The whole day will then be taken up in the Central and Richmond and Danville affairs, for immediately following the decision in the present hearing will come up the application of the Terminal to be allowed to vote the majority stock of the Central now in their hands. The petition of the Central Trust Company of New York for a dissolution of the injunction against the voting of that stock will also come up. Judge Tompkins is in Macon and will argue in behalf of the Central Trust Company while the Terminal will be represented by Captain Harry Jackson.

During the proceedings this morning Judge Speer threw some light into the future and the language of the court on an interruption of Captain Jackson during his argument may give some idea as to what the outcome of the present hearing may be. Judge Speer said:

"Assuming for the purpose of the suggestion that the plaintiffs may have proven their account and have also made a case for the appointment of a receiver, nevertheless the court will not appoint one if the defendant can give a bond sufficient to secure the plaintiff's demand."

Captain Jackson in reply said that it was not at all probable that they would reach a point where the plaintiff could prove the necessity for a receiver.

It is, however, probable that the court will appoint a receiver unless the Richmond and Danville or its receivers give bond. To Be Taken Up Today. Court adjourned at 1:45 o'clock and will

REPORTED FOR THE CONSTITUTION

the Supreme Court of Georgia.

Kaigler v. Roberts, ordinary, et. al. Elections. Statutes. County bonds. Before Judge Guerry. Terrell superior court.

1. A local act for the registration of voters in a given county which declares it unlawful to vote at any election without having first registered, and then proceeds to require registration blennially on those years in which elections are held for governor, members of the general assembly, members of congress and presidential electors applies only to voting at elections for the officers designated in the act, leaving the general law to operate upon all other elections, including an election held under section 508 (l) et seq. of the code, to determine whether a county debt shall be created by issuing bonds for a public object such as the erection of a new courthouse for the county.

held under section 508 (t) et seq. 0) the code, to determine whether a county debt shall be created by issuing bonds for a public object such as the erection of a new courthouse for the county.

2. The election in question being one for which no preliminary registration is required either by the local act or the general law, the provisions of section 508 (1) of the code apply, prescribing that whether or not two-thirds of the qualified voters of the county have voted in favor of the measure proposed, the tally sheets of the last general election shall be taken as a correct enumeration of the qualified voters. This is true notwithstanding the last general election may have been one for which registration was necessary, and notwithstanding the registrated voters for that election may have been much more numerous than those who voted at the same according to the tally sheets.

3. Under the allegations of the petition, the proposed issue of county bonds by the county authorities of Terrell county is not violative of the constitution or laws of this state, and no good cause appears for enjoining the same. The presiding judge did not err in denying the figuretion.

iel. Railroads. Negrigence. Charge of court.

Before Judge Jenkins. Morgan superior court.

1. When a railroad train is run against a man upon the track whilst the engineer is engaged in a criminal violation of a public law by not checking the speed of the train in approaching a public crossing, it is not true as matter of law that the engineer has a right to assume, on first seeing the man on the track, that he would get off in time to save himself, and act on that assumption until he discovered, too late to check the train effectually, that the man was not attentive to the danger which threatened him.

2. As failure to check and keep checking the train in approaching a public crossing is evidence of negligence for the consideration of the jury, although the person injured was not upon the crossing, but a few yards from it in the direction of the approaching train and using the track as a footway, it would not be appropriate in such a case to instruct the jury without proper explanation and qualification, that "the requirements of blowing the whistle, ringing the bell and checking the speed are not for the protection of persons using the track as a thoroughfare in its length and not in crossing it." Instructions on the subject should conform to what was ruled in Central railroad v. Raiford, 82 Ga.

ruled in Central railroad v. Raiford, 82 Ga. 400.

3. The plaintiff below was bound to use that degree of diligence for his own protection which every prudent person uses who puts himself unnecessarily in a perilous situation. The evidence in the record strongly indicates that had the injured party come up to this measure of diligence, he could and would have avoided the consequences to himself of the negligence of the company; and a new trial is ordered on this question alone, with direction to render judgment for the amount already assessed, or dismiss the action, according as the finding of another jury may be in the affirmative or the negative touching this one question.

and servant. Contract. Administration. Burden of proof. Before Judge Jenkins. Morgan superior court.

1. In a suit against an administrator to recover wages for annual services rendered the intestate during several successive years, evidence at the trial showing that there was a special contract between the plaintiff and deceased fixing the wages for the last year at $200 would authorize the jury to infer a like contract, not in excess of $200 per annum, for each preceding year. This being so, it was error to charge the jury that if the services for the years preceding the last were rendered and not paid for, the plaintiff would be entitled to recover their reasonable value. The instruction should have been that this would be the measure of recovery if there was no special contract applicable to those years.

2. The general rule which puts the burden upon the party alleging payment to prove it, applies to an administrator in a suit for services rendered his intestate. Lershe v. Brasher, 104 N. Y. 157; Barbour, Law of Payment, pp. 253, 292-3.

Whitfield v. Whitfield. Husband and wife. Marriage and divorce. Before Judge Jenkins. Jasper superior court.

Within the meaning of the law of divorce (Code section 1712), it is desertion by the wife, though she continue to reside in the matrimonial domicile, for her wilfully, persistently and without justification to deny her husband all his conjugal rights with the intention of casting him off as a husband completely and forever. The continuance of this state of affairs for three years affords cause of divorce on the ground of desertion, whether the husband remains in the matrimonial domicile occupying separate apartments from his wife, or withdraws from the house and lives elsewhere, provided her conduct be contrary to and against his will, and provided his own conduct be the result of hers and to that extent involuntary on his part. The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock

NEW YORK, June 20 .- In the stock market today the most prominent feature of trading was the strength exhibited by Canadian stocks among which Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic stocks were still leaders, preferred rising 1-1-2, though it could not hold all of its imprevement in the apathy existing and in the face of its recent sharp gains. Great Northwestern also made a sharp upward turn on very light transactions and Manitoba took a western also made a sharp upward turn on very light transactions and Manitoba took a rise of about 2 per cent. Among the general list Louisville, New Albany and Chicago was again prominent with a rise of 2 per cent. Among the us ally active list Rock Island, St. Paul, Louisville and Nashville and Northern Pacific preferred were most prominent in dealings and all rose practically though only in Rock Island was the movement of any importance. The market was extremely dull and featureless after a high opening until the last hour, but in a few cases were early gains wiped out even by a reaction following the announcement of gold shipment. In the last hour there was a sudden drop in Richmond and West Point securities, the result of a sharp drive by bears but accompanied by a rumor that Drexel, Morgan & Co had declined to undertake reorganization. In the drop which followed both New England and Reading suffered, though the connection of either with the reorganization of Richmond and West Point is extremely remote. The movement came to an end, however, before the close of the session and there was some recovery in stocks not directly interested in the proposed reorganization, yet the close was dull and rather heavy with most stocks at insignificent changes for the day.

NEW YORK, June 20.—London had moderate orders to buy stocks at the opening, and they bought about 3,000 shares of St. Prul and a like amount of Louisville and Nashville. This steadied up the market somewhat, but the speculation was very dull indeed; the traders as a rule were working for a rally and argued that if Mr. Cleveland is nominated t'will cause a rise of 1 or 2 percent in the stock market. The market was fairly strong until late in the afternoon a decided weakness again appeared in Richmond Terminal and both the bonds and stock declined sharply. Nothing was said to account for this weakness, but after the exchange was closed there was a rumor started that the Drexels are not going to take hold of the sheme. This report cannot be confirmed and the affairs of this company are in a great middle generally. Some more gold is to go out by tomorrow's steamer, and the shipment is to go to Berlin. The speculation is to go to Berlin. The speculation is one unfavorable crop reports from Germany. Later in the session wheat became weak and all the advance was lost, due principally to the lack of trade.

Corn opened strong, influenced by outside buying, principally by parties who were short. They were induced to buy not because they thought there was not corn enough or that the price was not high enough, but fearing manipulation in July a few rather bold speculation for having caused some radical chapters. Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, June 20—The cotton markets on both sides of the Atlantic have been weak today, but the greatest decline is recorded in Liverpool, where quotations at the close of the market today were 6-64d lower than on Saturday. Spot sales are only 7,000 bales. Cablesreport that great discouragement over the continued restriction in the demand from spinners, and that short time is in consequence again being talked of. Another cable says that the decline is due to the liquidation of the buils pending the general election, and in the expectation of heavy tenders on July contracts at the end of this month. In the New York market the decline up to 1 o'clock today was about 12 points. Opening prices were 10 points lower than on Saturday, and the liquidation subsequently of distressed cotton caused a slight further decline. Crop accounts continue generally good, and there is an entire absence of any new buying. This seems likely to continue until the crop situation changes. At present it is about as favorable as could be desired. The temperature yesterday throughout the south ranged upon the average as high as 90, and showers were general, although no heavy rainfall is reported. A telegram to us from New Orleans says that the levees broke yesterday at Angola, Withers and Jackson's Point. Upon this news the New Orleans market improved slightly and improved from 3@3 points. Whatever of recovery has been recorded has been due to the covering of the short interest and some buying upon the news from New Orleans with regard to the break in the levees reported above. The close was steady about 10 points below Saturday's figures.

change of sentiment in that direction. Here the first trading was at a decime of B point. We have had, however, a remarkable market the uphout the day, and the setting has been liberal canddering the moderate business; and, notwithstanding the indecesant offerings, values have held exceedingly well under an absorption which is hard to place. New Orleans and the south generally have sold very fair lines. There was, however, at all times a demand and a temporary period of weakness, but values immediately recovered to opening prices, at which we close. The weather south has generally been favorable according to the reports which are to hand today, and saide from a message speaking of two crevasses below Natches, of which nothing definite is as yet known, nothing of an unfavorable character has transpired. As usual, there have been no statements from Weathington in regard to the option bill. The only one of substance, however, which seems any ways reliable, is the report that the bill will be reported upon Thureday. The article in its present position shows absolutely nothing discouraging outside the legislative influence, which will be brought to bear upon the same. We have had a serious and appreciable loss in values, and we think that until we get further into the crop the present basis is reasonable. If we could feel sure that no harmful steps will be taken in the senate we should feel decidedly favorable to cotton now. As it is the future is a matter of doubt.

THE CHICAGO MARKET

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, June 20-A good business was transacted in wheat, and strong selling developed. The opening was a shade better than the closing prices Saturday and eased a trifle, then railied $\lambda_c$ again weakened, prices declining 1\(\lambda_c$\rangle heat railing the prices and the closing was $\lambda_c^2\lambda_c$ lower than Saturday. The early advance in corn exerted a stronger feeling in wheat, and to this was the improvement in prices attributed.

In corn a large business was transacted, the market ruling active a greater part of the session with fluctuations covering $\lambda_c^2\lambda_c$ crange. The feeling was nervous and unsettled, price changes being frequent and sudden. The opening was strong at $\lambda_c^2\lambda_c$ calvance on rains in districts where harvesting has begun, and after a loss of $\lambda_c$ co longs selling an advance of $\lambda_c$ large offerings, aided by a weak sample after a loss of 150 on longs selling an advance of 161150 was scored. Large offerings, aided by a weak sample market, dragged down contract grades 1350, closing a fraction lower for July and September.

Oats were slow but unsettled. There was an easy opening, prices receding 1660. The strength in corn had a good effect and prices advanced, and after losing part of the advance closed steady 160 higher than Saturday.

Hog products followed the cereal market and advance after a firm opening. The volume of trading mog products followed the cereal market and advanced after a firm opening. The volume of trading was moderate. At the highest point of the day selling orders and weak grain market sent prices down, especially for pork. Lard and ribs maintained an advance fairly well.

The leading futures ranged as follows in Chicago today. Closing. 781/2 WHEAT-came weak and all the advance was lost, due principally to the lack of trade.

Corn opened strong, influenced by outside buying, principally by parties who were short. They were induced to buy not because they thought there was not corn enough or that the price was not high enough, but fearing manipulation in July a few rather bold speculators having caused some radical changes quite recently. We notice, however, that in the close they are among the freest sellers. Receivers who had no 3s and other grades of corn to arrive last week were compelled to get into the market and fill their contracts, owing to the failure of almost all the componits arrival to grade. This they did manfully Friday and Saturday somewhere in the market today. Later when the market was left almost entirely to the shippers the demand became very poor and receivers had very hard work to dispose of their sample lots, even at liberal sacrifices. The closing was weak, including all grades.

*Receipts of oats were very large, the demand seemed to be fully equal to the supply. Even on the decline of corn and wheat the price for oats was well maintained.

Receipts of hogs were under the estimate and prices at the yards were 5c higher. Hog product obtained a like advance, the demand for ribs and lard being decidedly in the holders' favor.

fine scores are recorded by quite a number of the different commands. None of them, however, made a sufficient score to be classed as sharpshooters. It takes a score of 120 points out of a possible 150 to go in as sharpshooters, and the nearest approach to it was by Lieutenant J. H. Whitehead, of the Burke Light Infantry, who made eighty-seven points. Had he scored four more points he would have a marksman's badge.

more points he would have a marksman's badge.

In the skirmish firing, Lieutenant J. Ferris Cann, of Company A, Savannah Volunteer Guards, made twenty-three points. Captain W. J. Kendrick, of the Gate City Guard, was a close second, getting twenty-one on the running fire. While the scores are not so high, the men have learned how to use their pieces, under the instruction of Lieutenants C. B. Satterlee and Ira Haynes, of the United States army. These gentlemen have been untiring in their efforts to teach the men the use of the raised sights, how to adjust them by the screws, etc.

Captain W. J. Kendrick, Lieutenants Roberts and White, of the Gate City Guard, gave a dining today, complimentary to the commandant of the camp, Captain Edward Field, of the regular army, and staff; Colonel D. Glessner, of The News and Sun; Mr. Harry P. Brown, of The Morning Call, and to The Constitution correspondent. The dinner was the most claborate of any yet given, and the appreciation of the favor shown by the guests was fully attested by the hearty relish with which it was partaken. It was a feast that not one who enjoyed will forget soon.

relish with which it was partaken. It was a feast that not one who enjoyed will forget soon.

All the boys have had their sitting before the photographer this week, and this evening before camp broke were busy selecting their views for the girls they left behind them.

A little incident of last night by some of the boys has excited considerable comment in camp circles today, and, no doubt, will for some weeks to come.

Quite a number of the soldiers attended church in the city, and after services gathered and formed into battalions and marched to camp at rather a late hour. Their absence was detected at the 11 o'clock "check roll call," and Colonel Garrard had placed around the camp a heavy guard detail to arrest the boys as they came in. After considerable waiting, they came marching in over the parade ground in all kinds of costumes in true regimental form. approaching post 8, at the south end of camp. The guard made a dash for them and had them all surrounded in short order, but a stampede occurred, and the guard had a considerable chase for them. It was all fun on the part of the boys, but Colonel Garrard thought it was carrying the thing a little too far, and so expressed himself. Some of those who were in it say it being the last night of camp, and as they had been so quiet and orderly the whole stay, thought no notice would be taken of their frolic.

Captain H. B. McMaster, of the Burke Light Infantry, is officer of the day. This is his second time in this position. Colonel Garrard knows a good officer when he seeshim, and rewards merit, as is shown in this case.

The Artillery boys have had quite a number of visitors today. Mrs. F. B. Ferris, Mrs. W. F. Keeling, Mrs. Kempton, Mrs. W. P. Askew, Mrs. F. A. Springer, Mrs. Mattie Ivey, Misses Mercer, Lewis, Prothro, Gilbert and Jones, of Atlanta, together with a party of Griffin ladies and gentlemen, and several gentlemen from Atlanta, enjoyed one of Sergeant Morgan's famous pot chicken pies for dinner. There's no man in camp who can get up a better meal than Sergeant Morgan.

The First and Third battalions offered prizes for the company who showed up the best kept street. The decision has not been announced yet. The commander of the Fourth battalion offered no prize, but the quarters of the Gate City Guard were as neat as pins when they marched out.

Lieutenant Charles M. Roberts, of the Gate City Guard, was in command of the skirmishers on the range Saturday, and received many compliments on his coolness and efficiency.

The Gate City Guard, under command of Cantain Kendrick, went through the expenses and efficiency.

Gate City Guard, was in command of the skirmishers on the range Saturday, and received many compliments on his coolness and efficiency.

The Gate City Guard, under command of Captain Kendrick, went through the extended order skirmish this morning at 6 o'clock. This was their first effort in the drill, but they have been highly complimented on it today. Captain Kendrick gave his order to scatter, hurdle, deploy and scout by whistle signals, not a word being uttered.

The Grady Cadets, under Lieutenant Mack Laird, made a fine impression in the grand review yesterday evening at dress parade. The Gradys have enjoyed their share of the honors the week through, and go home with flying colors and more girls' hearts than any company in camp.

All the boys of the Atlanta companies have been complimented on their good work and soldierly bearing. They go home much pleased with Camp Northen, Griffin, and their week here. And the citizens of Griffin are glad they are so close to a city with such fine soldiers.

Several of the quartermaster sergeants of the companies coming in this week arrived this morning in advance of their commands to make arrangements for their reception tomorrow.

The hospital has been very slimly patronized this week. So much for the health of Griffin.

The sham battle of next Friday is all the talk. If the railroads will give excursion rates, Griffin will be full to overflowing with people.

The necessity for a grand stand at the parade ground is more apparent each afternoon. As matters now are the buggies crowd each other to such extent that if one horse should become unruly, there's no telling the number of people who would be hurt. Let's have the grand stand by 1893 any way.

Mrs. C. G. Bradley, wife of Lieutenant Bradley of the Artillery, left for Columbus this morning.

THE FEMALE NORMAL SCHOOL. Progress.

Milledgeville, Ga., June 20.—(Special.)—The commencement exercises of the Georgia Normal and Industrial college today gave one of the best exhibition ever seen in this part of the state. The following is a brief synopsis of the day's exhibition:

1. Children's exhibition in the model school room.

2. Exhibition of skill in the telegraphy room.

3. Exhibition of speed and skill in the stenography and typewriting room.

4. Special exhibition in the dressmaking

4. Special exhibition in the dressmaking room
5. Special exhibition in the cooking school room and general exhibitions.
The trustees of the college heartily join the faculty in not awarding honors or medals to pupils. The exhibitions today gave great satisfaction to every one in attendance. The expense to the scholars during the year has averaged less than ten dollars a month, or about one-third the cost of the expenses of other female colleges in the state.

other female colleges in the state.

The Week in Coleman's High School.

Coleman, Ga., June 20.—(Special.)—Our little town has been enjoying commencement this week—the closing of our high school. The exercises have all been pleasant and much enjoyed. The school has done a good work under Professor R. B. Daniel, principal, and his valuable corps of assistants. The report of the board of trustees was very satisfactory and encouraging. They have re-eleted Professor Daniel and his assistants, and have done away with tuition and adopted the incidental fee plan for the future. Mr. D. W. Hammock delivered the prizes and Hon. R. L. Moye, of Cuthbert, delivered the annual address before the school. There were good delegations from our neighboring towns and citizens in attendance.

Change of Postoffice Name.

Bremen, Ga., June 20.—(Special.)—A batch of vouchers for crossties that has been lying in the postoffice at Kramer, Wilcox county, a month, came in Saturday, forwarded by request to Bremen, and the news flew over the country, and they came flocking to the postoffice for them. It brings in lots of cash. We are glad that out Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus depot has been changed from Kramer to Bremen.

A NOTABLE ADDRESS

Which Has Attracted a Great Deal of Attention.

A NEW "YOUNG MAN ELOQUENT.

The Son of General Stephens D. Lee Talks Like His Father Fought-Some of the Things He Says.

Mr. B. H. Lee, a cultured member of the Atlanta bar and a son of General Stephen D. Lee, recently delivered an address which has attracted a good deal of attention. It was on the occasion of the Southern Female college commencement at LaGrange, and some distinguished gentlemen who happened to be present pronounced it one of the finest efforts they had ever heard.

The subject chosen for an address to the young ladies was "Our Southern Women," and the historical drift of the speaker's mind led him to speak particularly of the women of the confederacy. There is not space here to present the address, and it is not desirable to synopsize where the diction is exceptionally fine and the collocation of ideas felicitous, but a few extracts will be read with pleasure.

In speaking of the heroism of the southern women and the hardships they endured, Mr. Lee said:

"After the soldiers marched away began the "After the soldiers marched away began the wonderful home life of the woman of the confederacy. The plantation found in her a captain of industry, with a patience that never wearied and a courage that never flinched. She rose by the daylight to see the horses and cattle fed. She rode over the fields, and superintended the work. She spun, she carded, she dyed, she wove, she found time even to send her soldier husband the clothes which knew no skill but hers. Knitting, sewing, nursing, praying, she rested not ting, sewing, nursing, praying, she rested not by day, and at night her dreams were sweet with visions of way. Do not suppose that those were days of plenty. The floors of old smokehouses were dug up and leached to get salt, cornoob ashes had to serve for water supplying sweetening; took the soda; sorghum, long sweetening took the place of sugar; wheat, rye, peanuts, chestnuts and strange to say, best of all, sweet potato chips, were roasted, and had to play coffee with coffee left out. Sassafras tea became a dread reality. Persimmon vinegar and sumac ink came in; the dye pot bubbled like a witch's caldron with copperas and strange barks. Hardly a woman in the confederacy but might have said with Paul, T dye daily. And as for fashions, not even the blockade could shut out whispers of how bomets with goal feathers trimmed with red or blue slik from the lining of old coat, sieces. Then there were wonderful shuck bonnets that went to pleces when the government of the lining of old coat, sieces. Andrew College Commencement.

Andrew College Commencement.

Cuthbert, Ga., June 20.—(Special.)—The recent burning of Andrew Female college necessitated the temporary suspension of the college exercises. In fact, the young ladies were in the midst of their final examinations when the college was burned. This, of course, did away with the usual commencement exercises. In the senior class the first honor was won by Miss Gussie Barnes, of Quitman, Ga.; second honor shared by Misses Dora Randle, of Richland, Ga., and Hettie Tison, of Cuthbert. Diplomas were awarded, in addition to the above, to the following other young ladies of the graduating class: Misses Maggie Brown, of Jasper, Fla.; Ida Wooten, Bainbridge, Ga.; Willie Gay, Quitman county, Georgia; Annie Phillips, of Spring Vale, Ga.; Mollie Barfield, Luella Duke, Mattie Kimsey, Stella Simpson, Lucy Twitty and Mary Martin, of Cuthbert. This was a bright and interesting class. The trustees, in their recent meeting, approved the granting of diplomas to these young ladies. They unanimously re-elected the Rev. P. S. Twitty president. They also elected Colonel Arthur Hood and Hon. R. L. Moye to the board of trustees. The report of the president was, indeed, encouraging, showing the finances of the college in a good, healthy condition, and that valuable work is being done. The new and handsome college buildings are rapidly going up, and will be in readiness for the fall term opening.

Refrigerator.

FACTS WORTH CONSIDERING

The qualities sought for in the refrigerator are Preservation of Perishable Food and an Economical Use of Ice.

The economical use of ice depends entirely upon the principle involved, the construction of the Refrigerator, and in utilizing all the cold six. of the Refrigerator, and in utilizing all the cold air.

Dry atmosphere and uniform temperature can be obtained only by a perfect circulation of the air in the Refrigerator, and its condensation in the ice chamber.

The Alaska is constructed upon strictly scientific principles, by which low temperature and dryness of air are naturally and inevitably obtained.

The Alaska possesses a provision chamber free from odor.

The Alaska produces better results with less toe than any other refrigerator.

HIS DAUGHTERS

Charge George M. Walker With a Heinons Crime.

AND HE IS ARRESTED AND LOCKED UP.

There Were Threats of Lynching and for a Time Things Looked Bad for Him. Is He Guilty?

A short, stumpy man, about forty years old, with a scrawny, red beard, sharp eyes, a wrinkled, sun-burned face, wearing a

That is a picture of George W. Walker, farmer, merchant, and for the time being, prisoner at the police station on a most revolting and heinous charge.

Between pacing up and down the narrow space, and sitting dejectedly on the small end of a soap box in one corner of cell No. 7, Walker has passed the last fifteen

The charge booked against Walker is the ost heinous in all the catalogue of wrong

It is that of assault upon his own daughter, a pretty young lady of eighteen.
Walker strongly denies the charge, and declares that his daughter manufactured the story as an excuse to leave home. Whether this be true or not, Walker is held for an investigation.

Story of the Crime.

Walker is a farmer in Buckhead district, just ten miles north of Atlanta. He also runs a small country store.

His family consists of himself, two daughters, aged respectively eighteen and sixteen, a small boy and his wife.

The Walker family lives in a farmhouse adjacent to the small store building, and surrounding this are several acres cultiva-ted by Walker. The present Mrs. Walker husband's second wife. Week before last she came to Atlanta to spend some time with her mother, Mrs. Hood, who lives on Marietta street.

That visit has not yet terminated, Mrs. Walker having been ill a short while after coming here.

The Daughter's Story.

Thursday morning Walker's eldest dughter, Ida, came to Atlanta and went to her aunts, Mrs. Collins and Mrs. House, in north Atlanta. The girl at once to her aunts, Mrs. Collins and Mrs. House, in north Atlanta. The girl had walked all the way from home, and was in tears. She told a story that was too brutal and inhuman for belief.

She said that on the night before, her father had made a criminal assault upon her. She said she was afraid to stay at home after that, and she had sought refuge by coming to Atlanta and telling the story to her aunts.

The two ladies were horrified at the girl's story, and told some one that the girl was covered with bruises. They took their niece in and promised her a home until she could find something to do.

The following day, Friday, the youngest of the two girls, Lula, came to Atlanta and sought her sister. She told a story similar to that told by her sister, and said she had left home on account of her father's conduct. The story of the two girls created a great deal of indignation among the few to whom it was told, and there were murmurs of wrath against Walker, and in her weak condition it almost drove her wild. She wanted to go home at once and see if the stories were true, but her mother would not let her go. She promised, however, to go in her stead and find out the truth if possible.

Saturday afternoon she drove out to Walker's home and found him in his store.

however, to go in her stead and find out the truth if possible.

Saturday afternoon she drove out to Walker's home and found him in his store. He came out and asked Mrs. Hood about his wife, and then about the girls.

"Ida and Lula are telling awful tales about you," Mrs. Hood said. "They are telling tales that are enough to hang you."

Mrs. Hood reports that Walker flew into anger at this and said: "If they are telling that, d—n 'em, I'll kill them." Mrs. Hood says such expressions are very common with Walker and that he meant nothing of it. She says she became convinced of Walker's innocence before she left.

Threats of Violence.

The people living in the vicinity of Walk-

The people living in the vicinity of Walker's home heard of the awful story that the girls had told, and threats of lynching were freely made, it is said.

It is also reported that it was expected that Walker would be lynched Saturday night, and it is also rumored that a crowd called at his home for that purpose, but he was not at home.

Sunday morning he came to Atlanta and went to his mother-in-law's on Marietta street to see his wife. He spent Sunday with his wife and was still there yesterday

Me came up town during the morning and was seen by Mr. Henry Hildebrand, who lives near him and who was acquainted with the stories affoat. He thought Walker was fixing to leave and reported the matter was fixing to leave and reported the matter to the police at once.

About half-past 12 o'clock yesterday Patrolman Jett found Walker at Mrs. Hood's eating a watermelon, as quietly as if nothing had happened. When arrested Walker was badly scared, and emphatically denied the charges that his daughters had made. He was carried to the office of the chief of detectives after his arrival at the station house, and after talking with him some time Acting Chief Cason had Walker locked up to await investigation.

ed up to await investigation.

Captain Manley instructed that the two daughters of Walker be found and asked about the charges. They could not be found, however.

Walker Denies It.

After being locked up Walker became much cooler and told his story calmly on the cooler and told his story calmly enough.

I sall a lie," he said, "and I'll be out of here before tomorrow morning. A party—I mean my daughters—manufactured that lie, just to get away from home, but she acknowledged yesterday morning that it was all a lie. The girls just wanted to leave home, because they thought I was too hard on them, and they made up that lie just for an excuse to leave home and come to Atlanta. They didn't think there was any harm in if. I expect to be out of here all right by tomorrow."

His Mother-in-Law Calls.

His Mother-in-Law Calls.

Last night Walker's mother-in-law and her young daughter came to the police station to see Walker.

"His wife is nearly crazy about him," Mrs. Hood exclaimed, "and I just come down here to see if Mr. Walker has had his trial. 'Phronia is just worrying herself to death about it."

Phronia is just worrying herself to death about it."

Mrs. Hood was not allowed to see Walker but she talked freely about the case. She says that the story the girls tell is perfectly ridiculous; that the girls are thoughtless young creatures, and never thought of any harm from their story. She says her daughter does not believe her husband guilty of the heinous crime charged to him.

In the meantime Walker is in the police station.

Many believe him innocent. There will be an investigation today.

THE VICTIM IS DEAD.

A Bartow County Lady the Victim of a Ne gro Wretch. Cartersville, Ga., June 20.—(Special.)—Mrs. Smith, the lady assaulted by the negro last Sunday, died yesterday. Her death does not lessen the feeling in the community. It is reported that the negro has been located, and a posse of men left early this morning to capture him. It is safe to predict that he will not be captured alive.

A State Board of Health. Savannah, Ga., June 20.—(Special.)—The sanitary associations of Brunswick and Savannah have combined to make an effort to pass a bill at the next legislature providing for a state board of health. These two city governments as well as others will be selected to aid the movement.

A slight misunderstanding between Detectives Harvey Bedford and Joe Green which occurred Sunday morning caused the publication yesterday of a very sensational article, which does both gentlemen an injustice.

According the statements of both parties Sunday they arrested Georgia Morris, a white woman of bad character, on Thompson street. It happened that Detective Bedford knew a brother of the woman who is a very nice gentleman and has an excellent family, and he desired to save them the humiliation of having the woman ride in the patrol wagon.

He and Detective Green started out with the woman, Mr. Bedford being a little ahead, and walked down the street several feet, when the latter took hold of the woman's arm and started to put her in the wagon.

man's arm and started to put her in the wagon.

Mr. Bedford asked Mr. Green not to put her in the wagon, that he would carry her to the police station, as he did not wish to have any unnecessary notoriety about it. Detective Green thought she should go in the wagon, but insisted no farther. Mr. Bedford brought the woman to the police station. Mr. Green came in on the wagon. There was no tussle, no scuffle, no quarrel—not a single thing remotely resembling a fight occurred.

"It didn't amount to a hill of beans," said Mr. Bedford, "and I am surprised that it got into the papers at all, it was such a small affair. I wasn't mad at all, and didn't think Mr. Green was mad."

"I thought," said Mr. Green, "that the woman should be brought in the patrol wagon. I simply told Mr. Green that he was interfering with an officer. The matter quickly passed off and there was no trouble at all."

The two officers are at work together as if nothing had happened. Chief Connolly will refer the matter to the commissioners.

A party of Business Men Will Spend Three Days in the Mountains.

A party of stockholders in the Nantahala Marbie and Talc Company and their friends leave this morning for Nantahala, in Swain county, North Carolina. Nantahala is in the heart of a rich marble, mineral and timber section and the company owns a large tract of this land. The Western North Carolina railroad has been extended through the property, which the company intends to develop.

Among those who will take this trip are: J. C. Peck, A. G. Chisholm, W. B. Thomas, A. F. F. Cumming, A. M. Bergstorm, John Corrigan, J. B. Robinson, Ed Doolittle, L. B. Nelson, John M. Green, A. L. Dering, Charles Boeckh, L. D. Nelson, B. M. Hall, of Atlanta: W. H. Nunnally, Monroe, Ga.; Rowell Ellis, Oakland; E. Y. Hill, D. C. Hill, Burwell Green, J. H. Benson, Washington; George M. Overton, Union Point, and H. Russell Snead, of The New York World. Mr. Snead goes along to write up the property for The World.

The party will leave at 8 o'clock a. m. on the Western and Atlantic, and will spend three days in the mountains. A game and fish dinner will be served tomorrow on the banks of the Nantahala river.

THE RED MENTOMORROW. They Will Picnic at Stone Mountain-The Chieftain's lodge Improved Order of Red Men will give a picnic at Stone Mountain tomorrow, and a large delegation of braves will go up from Atlanta.

An interesting programme for the day has been prepared and every one who goes up will have a royal time. The sachem of the Stone Mountain tribe will deliver an address of welcome and Judge S. B. Hoyt, of Atlanta, will respond. A brass band will be on hand and an abundance of music furnished and an opportunity to dance all day will be given. A grand basket dinner will satisfy the appetite of all who attend. During the day Professor Walker will descend the steep side of the mountain.

LOOKING FOR A LEADER.

The Straightout Democrats of the Second Want an Available Man.

Albany, Ga., June 20.—(Special.)—Since the announcement of Judge C. B. Wooten's retirement from the campaign, the straightout democracy of this congressional district has been without a leader and is now anxiously looking for a Moses. Captain Hammond, who has offered his services and pocketbook to assist the party, refuses to become the standard bearer of the party, and it is thought that Ben Russell will now refuse since some preference has been shown Hammond over him. Russell seems to be the most available man now in sight, and if the most available man now in sight, and if he refuses to make the race, the prize will go by default to either O. B. Stevens, an Ocala democrat, a third party man or to a republican. The third party is a factor in the second. It cannot be sneezed at and is daily growing stronger.

POOL SOUTH CAUGHT.

POOL SOUTH CAUGHT.

He Is Found at His Home and Takes His Arrest Smilingly.

Poole South was arrested yesterday afternoon about 1 o'clock at his home, on Magnolia street, by Call Officer Beavers.

South has been at home since the shooting, and says he intended coming down and giving himself up to the officers. He took the matter smilingly, and says he is confident that nothing will come of it.

He says Pratt continued to follow him about, and quarreled at him all the afternoon. Finally, when he went into his room to lie down, Pratt came in with a knife in his hand and advanced toward him. He picked up his gun and fired. He did not intend to kill Pratt.

He will be tried today before Recorder Calhoun.

DR. BIEN'S BOOK-The Author of "Ben Bear" Is Visiting

Dr. H. M. Blen, of Vicksburg, is at the Kımball. Dr. Bien is the author or "Ben Beor," a historical story of the anti-Messiah. It is an interesting and entertaining book, is being universally praised by the press. Of it The Sabbath Visitor, of Chehmati, J., 2078: "Ben Beor' will not only prove a rare treat to thousands of readers, but a joyful surprise to our coreligionists to find so rich a contribution to English—shall we not say American?—Ilterature from the pen of a Jewish author. The book contains 528 pages, printed in clear type, on good paper, neatly bound in cloth."

CITY NOTES.

The George A. Johnson case against the Western and Atlantic raidroad, which has been on trial since Friday morning in the city court, for $10,000 damage on account of a collision at Bellwood crossing last July, was concluded yesterday, the jury returning a verdict for $500. This was for his personal injuries, which he claimed to be permanent to his spine, as well as for killing his mule and breaking up his wagon. C. T. Ladson represented the plaintiff, Payne & Tye the railroad company.

Bob Bruce, so well and favorably known in this city, left Saturday with the Richmond and Danville boys for Washington to work for the company. He will be greatly missed here by his many friends, but will no doubt make many more in the capital city by his ready wit and affable manner.

The many friends of J. Heyward Glover, Jr., of Newark, Ohio, will be glad to learn that he will be in Atlanta for a few days on a visit to his parents at 45 East Mitchell street.

John D. Easterlin, division superintendent; W. T. Gentry, manager; James A. Wotton, electrician, and James A. Owens, chief foreman, leave today for Richmond and New York to inspect new work now being done in the telephone field. The trip will be one of business and pleasure combined.

Mr. W. T. Gentry returned from Cumberland island Saturday morning, after a week's rest at that pleasant resort. He leaves today for Richmond, Va., New York city and the Virginia springs for recreation.

W. T. Kuhns, of Asonny, Ga., who has bee visiting relatives in the city, left last nigi for Chicago and the northwest to spend the

The Great Convention of Southern Educators Looming Up.

B. C. Davis, the musical director of the public schools, will have a chorus of 100 voices, and has the work of training well in hand and going forward, with frequent rehearsals.

Major Guinn, a special committee on music, reported the offer of the Atlanta Military band, and introduced Mr. McAfee, the director, who gave the terms in person and made liberal terms in view of the educational purpose of the association. After he had retired the committee voted unanimously to engage the Atlanta Military band, and the secretary was instructed to notify Mr. McAfee. This band, though a new one, already enjoys a fine the committee voted unanimously to engage the Atlanta Military band, and the secretary was instructed to notify Mr. McAfee. This band, though a new one, already enjoys a fine reputation, and its music will add greatly to the pleasure of the meeting. With the choruses and the orchestra, the musical programme will be an attractive one.

Secretary Guinn produced copies of the official builetin of the association, which he has just gotten out. It is a neat pamphlet, with programmes of the Georgia Teuchers' Association, and contains, in addition, all the information that will be needed by delegates and visitors attending the convention. One of the important items given is the information concerning hotels and boarding houses.

The rates secured are a 20 per cent reduction at the Kimball, $2 a day at the Markham and $1 to $1.50 per day at boarding houses. Major Slaton said he had a letter from the superintendent of the public schools in New Orleans, asking him to engage three of the best rooms at the Kimball.

The state school commissioners of twelve or fifteen states will be here, with Dr. Harris, United States commissioner of education, and many of the most eminent educators of the public school systems, together with a long list of college professors and distinguished menfrom the universities.

The serious problem of seating an assembly estimated all the way from two to three thousand delegates was considered by the committee and referred to Colonel W. S. Thomson, Mr. Joseph Hirsch and Mr. A. L. Kontz. It had already been decided to occupy the great light shaft and corridors opening through the rounda and rising to the roof. On the floors of the north light shaft and the two corridors which overlook it, it is estimated, three to five thousand people can be seated. If necessary the space in the rotunda and the center of the south light shaft and the two corridors which overlook it, it is estimated, three to five thousand people can be seated. If necessary the space in the rotunda and the center of the south light s and the meeting will be little short of an educational congress in dignity and importance.

To meet the emergency it was, on Colonel Thomson's suggestion, resolved to secure 2,000 chairs in addition to the 900 already in the capitol. This will provide seats for 2,900 people. If the crowd runs largely over that the committee will either rush in another thousand chairs or arrange for overflow meetings in the house of representatives and the senate chamber.

The departments which carry on practically a three days' normal school will be located in the Girls' High school building, where ample accommodations are provided.

Major Slaton said he had received a letter from Mr. Joel Hurt, chairman of the committee on excursions, stying that he was with the executive committee in its work and would do all in his power to make the convention a success.

The executive committee, after a very satisfactory meeting, adjourned to meet again on the call of the chairman, Major Slaton. The next meeting will probably occur on Thursday.

The Atlanta Educational Convention.

The Atlanta Educational Convention.

LaGrange, Ga., June 20.—(Special.)—Professor Euler B. Smith, president of the Georgia Teachers' Association, says that the next convention, soon to be held in Atlanta, promises to be more largely attended than any meeting ever held by the association. Professor Smith, who is director and manager for Georgia of the National Educational Association is preparing to carry a large delegation to the Saratoga meeting, June 12-15th. The route selected is via Detroit, Toronto and by steamer from Kingston to Montreal, returning by Niagara Falls. About a dozen of our citizens have decided to join him on this delightful trip.

and Professor Landrum were present, and the meeting was an interesting one.

The first business was finance, which is always an important feature in the arrangements for the coming of a great convention. The business was discussed in detail with the usual vigor and point of Atlanta committees, and practical work was outlined and will go through in good shape.

Meantime the other business was well in hand, most of the committees showing that their work was completed or very nearly so. Major Slaton informed the committee that Mr. B. C. Davis, the musical director of the public schools, will have a chorus of 100 voices, and

ANOTHER COMIC OPERA PRODUCTION

This Time By the Opera Club—The Move-ments of People You Know in and Around Atlanta.

There has been a very general request that the Atlanta Opera Club repeat their recent splendid presentation of the "Chimes of Normandy," and the executive committee of the club has concluded to accede to the request. The performance will be for the benefit of the club itself, the members having gone to a very considerable personal expense in preparing for the benefit of the Home for the Friendless, and desiring also to have a fund in the treasury toward future performances. They have worked very faithfully and very earnestly for two charities and have accomplished the most extraordinary artistic result on both occasions—first in producing the "Pirates of Penzance," for the benefit of the Grady hospital, and second in the late performance of the "Chimes of Normandy" for the Home for the Friendless. The public certainly owes the club a debt of gratitude for this work and will respond liberally to their request for patronage of their own enterprise. The exact date of the performance has not been fixed, but it will be within the next two or three weeks. The opera will be produced with the same handsome costumes, full orchestra and all other accessories which were used at the first performances.

The club will hold a rehearsal on Wednesday night of this week at Phillips & Crew's. All members are urged to be present.

The closing exercises of the convent of th Immaculate Conception occur tonight in the basement of the Catholic church, corner of Hunter and Loyd streets. This convent has Hunter and Loyd streets. This convent has long been recognized as one of the best schools in the state, and each year has added to its growth and usefulness. The closing exercises cannot fail to be exceedingly interesting, as special care has been given to the preparation, and the different features have been fully rehearsed. An entertaining part of the programme will be a play entitled "The Little Patriots." The fan drill will also be very pretty. The musical part of the programme will be exceptionally fine. The rengangement of the programme will be exceptionally fine.

The rendition of the choruses will be all that could be asked, and the entertainment will be one which will reflect credit on the pupils, as well which will relect creent on the public generally is invited to be present, and it is to be hoped that a large audience will be in attendance to testify to their appreciation of the efforts of the sisters in arranging a first-class school

They were jubilant and fun and merriment ran riot. Surely such a number of joily spirits never got together nor ever made so much of an occasion.

As the special pulled into the depot a yell

As the special pulled into the depot a yell arose from every throat and such a noise has not been heard in the union depot in many a day. The company yells were given with a will. When the trail stopped the soldier boys gave three cheers. They all alighted and formed into uniform lines and the roll of each company was called.

When this was over each company marched off with proud and martial tread, evidencing their delight at being once more on Atlanta's streets.

on Atlanta's streets.

The Gate City Guard was cheered heartily as the boys moved along in pretty, even ranks. Under command of young Lleutenant Joe Van Holt Nash the Rifles presented an excellent appearance. They all express themselves as highly pleased with the work of Lieutenant Nash as commander of the company.

The company will attend the marriage of Lieutenant Frank Hill to Miss Annie Smith, which occurs at St. Luke's this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, in a body.

5:30 o'clock, in a body.

The Grady Cadets came back greatly strengthened and determined to build the company up. A vote of thanks was tendered Orderly Sergeant T. L. Hardin for his work in keeping up the enthusiasm of the boys.

The Zouaves were great favorites in camp and came back in high spirits. Their fancy work with their guns caught the eye of every soldier and the ladies as well. The boys sadly regret having to leave camp.

Other Companies.

Other Companies. Several other companies which have been in camp during the week came in on a spe-cial train two hours ahead of the Atlanta boys and they were soon to be seen all over the city.

"Fra Diavolo," the Bill, a Splendid House and an Excellent Performance Given.

and an Excellent Performance Given.

Despite the fact that the weather was threatening last night, the MacCollin Opera Company drew a fashionable and critical audience at the Edgewood Avenue theater. The bill was Auber's charming and romantic opera "Fra Diaalo." In order to give the MacCollin company the benefit of what it accomplished on last evening, it must be stated opera "Fra Diavola" has been memorized by almost all of the entire company since last Friday.

companied on last evening, it must be stated opera "Fra Diavola" has been memorized by almost all of the entire company since last Friday.

There were probably only a few who knew this, and those that were acquainted with the fact state that last night's performance is by far the strongest and most brilliant rendition of the opera they have yet head in the south. The principals were unusually bright and charming in their solo work.

During the second act the sextet from "Lucia" was introduced. It was magnificent. Miss Hall, the talented and versatile prima donna, takes in this sextet high D. Hhe note is remarkably pure and strong and captivated her hearers. Mr. Apple, Mr. Pearson, Mr. MacCollin, Mr. Leonard, Mr. Warhurst, Miss Caseday and Mr. Burrows were in exceptionally fine voice, and their work was of the highest order. This evening the same bill be given and the lovers of beautiful and sweet singing will avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing the MacCollin company sing "Fra Diavolo."

A TOWN MARSHAL GONE.

John Brown, of Nelson, Ga., Goes in Search of a New Home. John Brown, town marshal of Nelson, Ga., a gay and festive young man, has gone glimmering.

He disappeared like a streak of lightning mering.

He disappeared like a streak of lightning around the mountains yesterday, and his handsome blonde locks may be seen no more in those parts until many moons come and go.

Sunday Call Officer Beavers arrested a young girl named Florie Bozeman, who was an immate of a house on Thompson street, upon advices from the girl's family, who live at Nelson. Pickens county.

The girl is quite young, quite pretty and told a story that was quite sad.

But it was the old, old story and it has been told at the police station a thousand times. Ruined by John Brown, town marshal of Nelson, he had advised her to leave, which she had done, coming to Atlanta. Yesterday the girl went back home to reform. Just ahead of her went a 'telegram from Chief Connolly to the mayor of Nelson, and it's part of the same story. The telegram asked that Brown be arrested and held, on the charge of persuading the girl to leave home. When the mayor received the letter he appointed a stonecuiter named John Guard to arrest the marshal, as requested. Guard, armed with his new commission, went in search of Brown. He found him with his stick and uniform, and arrested him. Brown took his arrest smilingly and asked Guard to go with him to Jasper, so that he could make bond. To this Guard consented and Brown went to a livery stable and asked for the fastest horse in the stable. The horse was brought out and John Brown mounted it. He looked around but Guard was nowhere in sight. He put spurs to the horse and galloped off like are wind. A few minutes later when Guard come up he found his prisoner gone. He gave chase, but Brown had gotten too much, of a start, and the pursuing officer never came in sight of him.

He returned to Nelson sadder but just a whit wiser. The affair created a good deal of talk in Nelson, where all the parties live. The young girl is back home, where she expects to remain.

A LEAP FOR LIFE.

ohn W. Grogan Files a $20,000 Suit Again John W. Grogan yesterday, through his attorneys, filed a suit against the Richmond and Danville railroad for the sum of $20,000. He claims that he was injured in a leap that he was obliged to make in order to save his life.

The petitics allows that he was obliged to make in order to save his life.

The petition alleges that the plaintiff on the 23d of April was in the employ of the company, serving in the capacity of an engineer. It became necessary, at a certain point, for his train to take a side track in order to let a passenger train go by. After the train had passed the switchman of the freight signaled to the engineer to move forward and resume the trip upon the maintrack. The switch for some reason or other was not adjusted to the track, or was out of order, and when the engine reached the switch it left the track and turned over. The engineer foreseeing his peril and in order to save his life jumped from the bounding car and landed upon his back, rolling for several feet down the steep embankment.

He claims that the fall produced a concussion of the spine and also injured his internal organs. He was confined to his bed for several weeks by the after effects, and his doctor's bill was about three hundred dollars. He was twenty-nine years old when the accident occurred and was earning good wages.

Gleen & Slaton represent the plaintiff.

Companies of the Third Georgia Regimen Passing Through. The Hill City Cadets, of Rome, commanded by Captain Phil Byrd, marched into the capitol yesterday under arms and proceeded to the armory, where they exchanged their cadet guns for the latest pattern of

It was an unusual sight, a military company marching into the capitol under arms, and it suggested stormy times in the days of reconstruction, when southern capitels were hedged about with bayoaets. The mission of Capitain 3yrd and his men was peaceful enough and after securing their arms, the company marched to their place of endeavous and broke ranks. This morning they take the train for Griffin, where they will go into camp for the week with the Third regiment. army rifles. It was an

St.000 Against the E. T., V. and Ga.

A suit for $5,000 was filed yesterday in the clerk's office by William Edmundson.

He claims that he was mashed under a weight of 1,000 pounds and sues for damages at the rate of $5 a pound.

The petitioner states that he was in the employ of the East Tennessee company on the 4th of last April, and that it was his duty to obey orders and to make himself useful about the shops. Carrying out his instructions on the day alleged, he went into the pit under one of the defendant's engines to remove the king bolt. While in the pit the defendant's employes let down the truck frame, causing the wheels to move and the frame to fall upon petitioner. The weight of the frame was over a thousand pounds, and the result of the fall was the crushing of his left knee and right foot, breaking the bones completely and lacerating the flesh. He was earning about four hundred dollars a year, and his doctor's bill since the accident amounted to $100. The case was filed in the city court.

The Criminal Ruined the Daughter and Murdered Her Father.

Greenville, S. C., June 20.—(Special.)—
L. Washington Hipps, an old man about sixty years of age, was foully murdered by his son-in-law, J. W. J. Morgan, in Glassy mountain township, of this county, on Saturday last. Morgan married a daughter of Mr. Hipps some years ago. Another younger daughter has been living with Morgan and her sister. Recently this younger daughter gave birth to a child and confessed that Morgan was its father. Mr. Hipps felt the disgrace keenly and endeavored to have Morgan punished. He also carried his daughter home with him, much against Morgan's wishes. Morgan went to Mr. Hipps's home on Saturday last, and after trying in vain to persuade the girl to go back home with him, he went into the field adjoining and shot Mr. Hipps in the back with a load of buckshot from the gun he had with him, killing him instantly. After shooting their father he went back to the house and told two of Mr. Hipps's daughters what he had done, adding that he expected to hang for it. He then field to the mountains, where he is supposed to be now. This makes the fourth homicide in the county within two weeks.

"I went to the registration office this morning for the second time since the election was called. I found that a number of men had been climbing the fence in the rear of J. B. Davenport's store and coming up the back way and registering, while the crowd was kept at the foot of the stairs on the street. This was stopped imstairs on the street. This was stopped im-mediately, Judge Eve giving the most posi-tive orders concerning it. Mr. Charles Bohler seemed to regret the matter very much, assuring me that he was doing everything in his power to have the regis-tration a fair one. About half-past 3 o'clock I came back, mounted the stairs without being hindered by the officers who guarded the entrance below and above. As I reached the veranda two rough-looking men approached me—one of them with a stick. The latter said to his companion: That man has no business up here, and we will put him down.' As I pushed on to Mr. Bohler's door they got before me and declared I must go down. I demurred, while they threatened and swore, I told them I had been invited by Mr. Bohler into his office, and was going. I was then within about six feet of the door. The number of men had increased to at least six, and they began to take hold of me roughly and pull me around. I appealed in vain to the policeman in the door to be allowed to enter. They were all strangers to me, though I think I would recognize the man who struck me. I held my ground, and in a moment friends began to gather, and the men who had assaulted me to grow quiet. They were apparently known to the officers but no attempt was made to arrest them.
Under the escort of Sheriff O'Connor, I left the veranda, and passing through the office of the tax receiver, was admitted by Mr. Bohler to his office through the back door. The dull monotony of the long afternoons cannot be made bearable by finding an easy chair in Tom White's baseball parlors on Decatur street, while the Atlantas are away from home.

Mr. Turner thought it was only a new name for gambling, and the council agreed with him by a vote of 9 to 8.

The Stephens Ordinance.

"I have the report of the police committee," said the deputy clerk.

The big audience became all attention.
Everybody thought a big fight was coming on the Stephens ordinance to abolish the sale of liquor on Peters street, and no one awanted to miss a word of the racket.

"On Mr. Stephens's ordinance," said Deputy Clerk Rice, "the committee reports adversely. It is signed by Mr. Tye and Mr. Hill."

The anticipated minority report by Mr. Shropshire was not produced, and the report of Mr. Hill and Mr. Tye was placed upon its passage. No one appeared anxious to start a debate, and the report of the committee was adopted.

That killed the Stephens ordinance, and subsequently the Peters street licenses were granted, the committee having made a favorable report on them.

"I have here," said the deputy clerk, "a batch of petitions upon which adverse reports have been made."

They were:
Theo Fichter, been, 526 Marietta; August Flesh, beer, 83 and 85 Mangum; Hail & Co., beer, 230 Wheat street; S. W. Woodward, beer, 502 Decatur; Amos Baker, beer, 103 Terry street; S. N. Kent, beer, 596 Marietta; A. F. Grubbs, beer, 556 Marietta.

The adverse report was adopted.

The clerk then presented the ninety-four licenses which have been in existence for The committee had recommended them and ouncil concurred.

No More Ball Games, Tommie.

The police committee presented a favorable report on Tom White's petition for a license to receive baseball returns by wire at 5 1-2 Decatur street.

"I move," said Mr. Hill, "that the license be fixed at $5 a month."

Mr. Turner opposed the license, declaring that in his opinion it was only another name for a gambling house.

Mr. Hill enlightened the council, at least he sought to do so, by telling them that it was only a place where people could see the game as reported in detail.

"Where do they get anything out of it, then?" asked Mr. Rice.

"By charging a quarter admission," replied

The same committee made an adverse report upon the petition for the removal of Brisbine park.

The police committee and the police commission reported adversely upon the petition for permission to open that home for fallen women because of the location, objection having been filed by neighbors.

the park committee was asked for its report.

The resolution declared that Atlanta ought to have a park on the north, and that, if possible, it should be in connection with the new waterworks. It then recommended that a special committee be appointed to secure options on property around the new waterworks, the present offer of the owners being too high.

"I think," said Mr. Turner, "that that should go to the park committee."

Mr. Sawtell thought it should go to some special committee.

Mr. Turner's motion was adopted.

The Water Meters.

"A paper from the aldermanic board," said Deputy Clerk Rice.

Relieving the Mayor Pro Tem.

The claims committee, Mr. Meador, chairman, presented a resolution relieving Hon. A. M. Reinhardt, aldarman and mayor pro tem., from one-half of the assessment on his property in the rear of the Mullenix property on Summit avenue, on account of damages to his property by building a sewer through it. The resolution was adopted.

The fire department committee awarded building permits to J. P. Crocket, 220 East Fair street and L. B. Owen, 46 Whitehall. The comptroller's report showed of the apportionment that $1,494,227.50 was unexpended.

Coupons Burned Up. Mr. Rice, chairman of the finance com-nittee, submitted a report showing that the finance committee and the comptroller ted and burned $74,923.75 of co

"We also burned," said the report, "250 coupons which were clipped from the bonds issued for building new waterworks in January last, amounting to $5.625. The total issue of these bonds was $500,000, half of which were delivered in January with all the coupons attached and the other half to be delivered on the 1st day of July from which the first coupons maturing on that date were detached and burned. We also counted and burned 107 bonds of $1,000 and 139 bonds of $500 each. negregating $176,500."

A lengthy petition was presented asking the council to have Oakland cemetery secure-ly fenced in.

Mr. Reneau, of the special committee on a new cemetery, asked for further time.

Mr. Meador and Mr. Northen were both for the removal and the report to that extent was adopted.

"Now," said Mr. Rice, "if it's a nuisance where it is now what right have we to take it away and put it on other people? Let's kill it altogether. I move to recommit the entire question to the street committee."

It was recommitted.

Saw Balls of Fire.

Saw Balls of Fire Conyers, Ga., June 20.—(Special.)—Mr. J. L. Shaw, a very well known young man in our community, was out at a late hour last Sunday night. He said there was a mysterious light visible in the heavens, and balls of fire fell around him. He was at a loss to account for the phenom and made tracks for home. People who give Hood's Sarsaparilla a fair trial realize its great merit and are glad to say a good word for it. Have you tried it?

In 1850 "Brown's Bronchial Troches" were introduced, and their success as a cure for Colds, Coughs, Asthma and Bronchitis has been unparalleled.

EARL WARNER, NEW LONDON, CONN., makes the following statement:

"About 26 years ago I was stricken with Paralysis of the lower extremities and was unable to move. I was treated by physicians and so far relieved as to be able, with the assistance of crutches, to again attend to my business. I was troubled, however, by a persistent constipation that nothing seemed to relieve and that finally became so severe as to make my life hardly worth living. After trying many medicines I was advised by my mother to try Brandreth's Pills and I did so, beginning with four Pills as a dose. The relief they afforded me was immediate, and I continued to take them in doses of the above every night. Finally I was obliged to gradually decrease the quantity until I only took one Pill at a time, which was always taken just before retiring. I continued this for over 20 years and then was again obliged to reduce the quantity by taking only half a Pill instead of a whole one and have continued this to the present day. My health during these 26 years has been excellent. I have been free from all pains and aches; have enjoyed a good appetite and a better digestion, and altogether have been as happy as it is possible for any man to be who is obliged to shuffle through life accompanied always by two stout canes. My case is typical of what I believe to be the peculiarity of Brandreth's Pills, namely, that the dose has to be gradually reduced the longer one takes them, instead of increased, as is the case with all other medicines. I send you this testimonial entirely unsolicited and only in the hope of doing good. It may be the means of helping those who most need it."

THE STOMACH OF A FISH Out to Be a Kind of Curiosity

Shop.

Sandersville, Ga., June 20.—(Special.)—Mr. Hyman Herman, who has been fishing in the past week, returned in the city today. He had most remarkable luck in the piscatorial sport and brought to some of his friends large assortments of fish. He gave one string to Mr. Mack Duggan and while the cook was cleaning a large channel catfish she was dumfounded by discovering two brass buttons in the fish's stomach. On close inspection the following inscription could be discerned on one of the buttons, "General Wheeler, 1864." The other button contained these words, "Sherman bound for the sea." They were scratched on the under side of the button by some sharp pointed instrument. It is an historical fact that during Sherman's raid through Georgia he camped one night on the banks of Keg creek, on the same ground which General Wheeler had occupied the night before, and soon after a fresher washed the buttons in the creek. Mr. Duggan has the buttons and intends scading them to the world's fair. He has been offered $12. for them but refused the offer.
